500 LETTERS TO MISS WALSH MAKE EMPLOYERS BELIEVE

GIRL TOOL OF THIEVING SCOUNDREL

HELD FOR ROBBING HER EMPLOYERS.

(Sketch Drawn from Description of the Girl.)

Strange Discovery by Police in Tin Boxes Found in Young Woman's Room---Admitted to Bail---Says Necessity Made Her Dishonest.

THAT PRETTY LOTTIE B. WALSH, ACCUSED OF THE THEFT OF ABOUT $2,000 IN CASH, AND BOOKS, STATIONERY, PICTURES AND OTHER ARTICLES, WORTH AS MUCH MORE, FROM HER EMPLOYERS, MENDLOW BROS., STATIONERS, OF CENTRAL SQUARE, LYNN, HAD AN ACCOMPLICE, WAS ASSERTED BY THE POLICE AFTER THE PRELIMINARY HEARING IN THE CASE TO-DAY.

IT WAS EXPECTED THAT TWO TIN BOXES, SAFELY LOCKED, BUT IN THE POSSESSION OF THE POLICE, WOULD YIELD INCRIMINATING EVIDENCE AGAINST A MAN WHO IS SAID TO HAVE HAD FACILITIES FOR DISPOSING OF SUCH ARTICLES. THE BOXES CONTAIN MORE THAN 500 LETTERS, MANY OF THEM REGISTERED, AND A NUMBER OF TELEGRAMS, ALL FROM THE SAME MAN.

Julius Mendlow, a member of the firm, said to-day that $500 worth of fountain pens and a quantity of other valuable articles had not been recovered and must have been disposed of. He was of the opinion that a clever thief used his trusted saleswoman and buyer as a tool.

MISS WALSH HELD IN $1,000.

Miss Walsh waived an examination through her attorney, William E. Fisk, in Lynn to-day, and was held in $1,000 bonds to await the action of the September grand jury. The pretty prisoner took no part in the proceedings beyond standing to hear the complaint read. She was neatly dressed in a black broadcloth skirt, white shirt waist with lace collar and a light tailor-made jacket.

She was unable to get bail immediately and was sent back to a cell. There was a pathetic scene after the girl had been placed in the cell, when her invalid mother was permitted to go to see her. The mother wept bitterly and the girl, for the first since her arrest yesterday, lost her composure and shed tears. She did not deny, however, that she had stolen goods and money from her employers.

"I confess that I have been stealing for the last few months," she said. "I did not begin stealing until March 12. That was the day I committed the first theft. I was driven to it by necessity. My mother is ill and my father has been out of work all winter. I was the only member of the family earning anything, and my salary was only eight dollars a week. I needed money badly that I stole it."

Nearly a ton of books, stationery and novelty goods was found in the girl's room. There were several Bibles, boxes of pens, games of all kinds, waste baskets, framed pictures and other articles that made the room look like an art museum and novelty store combined. There were nearly 1,000 books, most of them standard novels of the day, ranged around the walls and packed in closets. In many of them she had written her name, showing apparently that she had not intended to dispose of them as new.

EMPLOYED A YEAR.

The girl has been in the employ of Mend-

FAIL TO PASS LABOR BILL OVER BATES' VETO

AFTER ANGRY DEBATE IN HOUSE GOVERNOR'S VETO IS SUSTAINED, 82 TO 126.

The House this afternoon failed to pass the bill prohibiting the employment of women and minors in factories between the hours of 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. over the Governor's veto. The vote was 126 in favor of passing the measure against 82 who stood by Governor Bates.

Of those who voted in favor of passing the measure over the head of the executive about fifty-six were republicans.

The fight in the House to pass the bill was waged with great warmth this afternoon.

Representative Samuel Ross, of New Bedford, a textile worker and member of the Spinners' Association, led the attack on the veto, while the Governor was defended by Representative Tafft.

Representative Ross made a speech notable for its arguments made by the Governor in his veto. He said:

"I am satisfied that I could take the Governor's remarks seriatim, and successfully contradict every statement in it. Every objection in the message is a stock argument of those who oppose the bill. They are the same arguments that have been made before the Labor Committee for years.

"The Governor gives as his reasons for disapproving the bill the fact that it would shut out women from employment at night, deny the right to women who wish to work at night, and his belief that the bill would not correct the existing evil, that some evening work is demanded, that the question can settle itself, that women and minors are employed at night only when there is urgency, that women are anxious for the opportunity to work at night, that the bill is not in the interest of labor, and that the law would be harmful to the textile industry in this State, which has already suffered severely by competition of mills in other States. He concludes: 'I cannot believe, therefore, that this bill is in the interest of minors, or of women, or of labor, or of capital, or of the Commonwealth.'

Veto Like Thunderclap.

Representative Ross, who is a textile worker himself, and who has labored diligently for the passage of the bill, said of the veto: "The acceptance of the veto would mean the undoing of the result of the long and weary years of effort in behalf of legislation for the benefit of the textile workers. The veto came as a surprise to us, for we had felt assured that as the bill had met the ideas of a majority of the Senate, practically all of the House, and the Committee on Labor it would agree with the Governor's views.

"For nine long years the women and the young people of the mills have looked forward to relief from the necessity of working overtime, and it now seems as if the cup of happiness, which was raised to their lips by the Legislature, is about to be 'hed away.'"

LIEUT. LOW OF BOSTON WEDS

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 2.—The wedding of Lieutenant William Whittemore Low, of the United States Marine Corps, stationed at the Boston Navy Yard, to Miss Mary Edith Parmelee, daughter of Mrs. Henry Spencer Parmelee, of this city, was solemnized at high noon at the residence of the bride on Hillhouse avenue.

Miss Parmelee was given away by her brother, Henry F. Parmelee. The bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Julie Parmelee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, of the Yale corporation. The best man was Dr. Jacob Stetl, of the United States Navy. It was a military wedding, the ushers being Captain William H. Hopkins, Captain Guilty, Captain S. M. Butler and Naval Constructor Henry Williams, of Boston, all in full uniform. There were 150 guests.

After the wedding trip Lieutenant and Mrs. Low will reside at the Boston Navy Yard. Mrs. Low is the daughter of the late Henry S. Parmelee, president of the New Haven street railway system.

ACTORS BEAT MANAGER AND BREAK UP SHOW

TORONTO, Ont., June 2.—Manager James Burns, "Reuben in New York," a New Yorker, was brutally beaten at Brockville, Ont., by James Grant and Joseph Kearney, two of the troupe who had been refused a week's salary in advance. They caused a row behind the scenes, and were ejected by the police. The company in consequence has been disbanded.

FRANCE WILL AID PERDICARIS

Delicasse Promises to Co-Operate With U. S. Against Morocco Brigands.

PARIS, June 2.—Foreign Minister Delcasse has promised France's assistance to the United States in the efforts of the latter to obtain the release of Perdicaris and his stepson, Varley, who are now being held captive by the Moorish brigands.

Ambassador Porter saw the foreign minister this morning and handed to the French official America's request for French aid. The foreign minister sent instructions to this effect to the French minister at Tangier.

Plead With Raisuli.

According to a dispatch received from Tangier this morning, the Angerra tribe has sent a delegation of its leading men to have a personal interview with Raisuli, the chief of the bandits, and endeavor to elicit from him a promise that he will release the captives. The tribesmen, it is said, will appeal to the brigand to let the men go so as to avoid the landing of foreigners opposed to the Moslem faith on Moroccan shores. It is believed the argument will have considerable weight with Raisuli.

The dispatch adds that the Italian third-class cruiser Dogali arrived at Tangier this morning.

PROMISE MORE WIND AND RAIN

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A storm of moderate energy off the Southern New England coast will cause brisk, positively strong east to north winds, with rain today and to-night.

Furs and skaters, mittens and ratlines will continue to be popular in Boston for another twenty-four hours at least, and perhaps longer. Coal dealers rejoice.

Forecaster Smith held out small comfort this morning. "I'm doing the best I can for Boston," said Mr Smith, with tears in his voice, to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN, "but I am only a poor, weak creature. It's going to remain cold another day at least. The wind will continue to howl in from the East and as long as it does Boston cannot expect a change.

The mercury dropped to forty-eight last night and to-day its climb upward has been slow. At one p. m. it only registered fifty-two, with no sign of going any higher.

The rainfall is general all over the country, but New England is getting the worst touch on winter weather. Only in Florida are the breezes balmy and the days warm.

PENROSE IN QUAY'S PLACE.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Acting Chairman Payne, of the Republican National Committee, to-day appointed Senator Penrose a member of the committee to succeed Senator Quay.

Hah, rah, rah!
Hah, rah, rah!
N. Y. S. K. B. B. C.
Hah, rah, rah!

This Indian yell made Boston Stock Exchange sit up and gasp for a minute.

It came from the gallery.

A shouting, gleeful crowd of fifty sports, looking men were jammed into the gallery, hurling defiance to those on the floor below.

The Boston Stock Exchange knew that the New York Stock Exchange's baseball team, its "rooters" and "fans" was in town for the annual contest.

Easy Game, This.

The New York men arrived at the Back Bay Station at 9.02, and proceeded to let everyone within hearing distance know they came from New York and could put the "trimmings" on any baseball team that ever came out of State street.

They seized on a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter at the station and fiercely demanded to know how to get to the B. A. A. club.

Guided by the reporter, they passed through Copley square to the club quarters. They received hearty welcome and breakfast. Then some played pool. Others sought the swimming tank and had a dive or two. Finally all lined up in the gymnasium and posed for the BOSTON AMERICAN photographer, though it was hard work to get them to stand still long enough. They much preferred waving their hands and declaring they were the fastest aggregation of ball tossers that ever came down. But they were finally "snapped."

Out to See Town.

Then they started at 11.15 to see the town. They chartered about a dozen hacks and rode around through the Back Bay for a while, down by the Public Garden and Tremont street on their way to the Stock Exchange. The driver of the rearmost hack got the idea in his head that this party was bound for King's Chapel, where a wedding was being performed.

He stopped in front of the church and had his New Yorkers at the entrance before they found where they were.

"We don't want a church or to get married," howled the New Yorkers; "We want Boston Stock Exchange."

This is how the score will look after the game:

Finally they got it. They cheered everything they saw in the exchange. They tried to "chant in" on the floor. The doorkeeper, who in his generous, wouldn't let 'em. Then they cheered the doorkeeper. They raised the roof in the gallery and wouldn't go out till the stock exchange stopped business and gave them three times three and a tiger in return.

They went back to the B. A. A. for luncheon.

SAY EDISON CO. DISCRIMINATES

A petition signed by twenty business firms in Boston has been filed with the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners for a hearing on a reduction in the price of electricity furnished by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, of Boston.

The petitioners say that they are unjustly discriminated against in the prices charged, and that other individuals and firms are furnished the same quantity and quality of electric current at a lower price.

TESTING SUBMARINES.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 2.—The trial board from Washington has begun the official trials of the new Holland submarine boat. The tests consist of speed runs under the several conditions over the measured mile course.

TURF WINS A VANDERBILT

Special to the Boston American.

NEWPORT, June 2.—Alfred Vanderbilt will join the army of millionaires running horses on the American turf, with such men as William K. Vanderbilt and Harry Payne Whitney, Edward R. Thomas, Herman R. Ivorson and Joseph Widener.

Recently he purchased a large farm adjoining that of Oakland, in Portsmouth, where he will remove his stables. A race track will be built there. He and his stable manager, Charles Wilson, for many years with Elsen Jordan, will scour the country for racers. His colors are the famous maroon and white of the Vanderbilt family.

FIGHT ON AT GATES OF PORT

Japanese Assault on Outer Defences of Citadel Now Raging.

KUROPATKIN MUST FIGHT

LONDON, June 2.—The Japanese are believed to be hammering at Port Arthur gates.

A Chefoo dispatch says that the land attack on the fortress began yesterday (Wednesday) morning.

It is thought that Oku's men have completed the preliminaries for the assault on the position taken by General Stoessel for his last stand against the Japs, just outside the fortress and under the protection of the guns of the citadel, and that the awful death duel is now raging.

The Russians routed Kin-Chou and Nanshan Hill are making the fight against the Mikado's men. They are assisted, it is said, by the Russian ships in the harbor in their efforts to repulse the enemy.

It may take several days' costly fighting before the outposts are taken, but refugees recently arrived at Chefoo from the besieged city declare the stronghold must eventually fall before the dogged determination and the overwhelming numbers of the foe.

Landing Siege Guns.

That the Japs intend to follow up the fighting is borne out by further dispatches from Chefoo that a train of siege artillery has been landed at Kin Chou, followed by large quantities of ammunition. An engineers' battalion, including a balloon section, is landing near Nanshan. The balloon outfit, it is said, is to be used in directing artillery operations preliminary to the general assault on the fortress itself.

Must Do or Die.

A Paris dispatch from St. Petersburg says that General Stoessel has had his orders from the Czar in the event of the fall of the Russian stronghold. He has been directed to blow up fortifications, the banks and the valuable buildings, in fact everything that may be of service to the Japanese, should their efforts on the place be successful.

The fleet, the Czar has ordered, must on no consideration be surrendered. It must cut its way out, even at the risk of annihilation in a desperate endeavor to join the squadron at Vladivostok.

The garrison of Port Arthur has been put on half rations five days a week.

JAPS IN A WRESTLING MATCH ON WAY TO WAR.

This remarkable photograph was taken aboard the steamship Doric, plying between Japanese ports and Corea, while on her way to Chemulpo. It was snapped just after the tremendous victory of Admiral Togo, and the many Japanese volunteers on board amused the war correspondents and the women passengers by their outbursts of enthusiasm.

Several young Japanese enthusiasts wished to show the American, English, German, French and Italian correspondents how the men of their country fight. They appealed to the captain, who had a platform erected amidships. Broadsword combats, wrestling and the jiu jitsu were shown the visitors.

The women watching the wrestling contests belong to the Red Cross Society, who went to the front to care for the wounded Japanese soldiers.

SEAMEN FED TOO WELL ON AMER. SHIPS

—EDW. C. PLUMMER.

U. S. Lawe Said to Favor Men at the Expense of the Shipowners.

"FARE SUSPASSES NAVY"

According to the statements made to Senators Lodge, Gallinger and Mallory, of the Congressional Merchant Marine Commission, at its meeting to-day by Edward C. Plummer, attorney for the Atlantic Carriers' Association, men before the mast on American merchant ships are fed high and are favored by law at the expense of ship owners. He said that ship owners did not have a prejudice against American boys for seamen because they are too much, but that American boys would not go to sea because there was too little chance to rise. More funnage meant bigger ships and fewer of them. The number of captains and mates was dwindling for the same reason. He said:

"Fed Too High."

"Seamen in the United States Navy are fed better than in any other navy, and yet the law compels owners of American merchant vessels to feed their crews better than the Government feeds the men that fight the battles of the country. Under the law seamen are given better food than the average laboring man gets on shore."

He advocated a subsidy for ships, as did Captain G. B. Ross, Pilot Commissioner of Boston.

Edwin M. Brewer, shipmaster, said the game of subsidy a one that two can play, and it has been played too much already. He advocated "free ships"—vessels built anywhere and sailed under the American flag.

Captain E. R. Grant, United States Shipping Commissioner, said there should be an equalization. Sailors could hold an owner to a contract which they were at liberty to violate.

Captain James M. Lewis, of the Boston Steamship Company, said: "Contention with labor unions is responsible for the employment of Chinese on Pacific steamship lines."

Augustus P. Loring advocated rebate duties or "free ships."

VERESTCHAGIN'S LAST, AT $20,000

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—The last drawing of Verestchagin, the famous Russian painter, who lost his life on Petropavlovsk at Port Arthur, has been sold to a Moscow dealer for $20,000. The drawing depicts the late Admirals Makaroff and Molas, both of whom were killed at the same time, holding a conference aboard the ill-fated vessel.

KUROPATKIN MUST FIGHT

LONDON, June 2.—There are persistent rumors that St. Petersburg court influences are forcing Kuropatkin to assume the offensive against General Kuroki's army. The report of the Russian defeat at Hai-Ching is not credited at St. Petersburg where great pressure is exercised to induce the Russian commander to offer battle in an endeavor to retrieve Russian prestige by a brilliant victory.

RUSS. KIN-CHOU LOSS WAS 830

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—A semi-official telegram from Mukden, dated today, says the Russian losses at the battle of Kin-Chou, May 26, were thirty officers and 800 men killed or wounded.

The guns abandoned by the Russians were rendered useless.

NO PROTEST ON MINES.

LONDON, June 2.—In the House of Commons to-day the Earl of Percy, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replying to questions, said no representation had been made to Russia on the subject of naval mines outside of territorial limits in the Far East.

CHEER COSSACK VICTORY.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—There is great rejoicing here over the reports of the slaughter of 200 Japs by the Cossacks at Vagenfuchu. The latter, it is said, did awful execution with the lance, and their victory is hailed with great acclaim in view of the recent reverses said to have been sustained by the daring riders.

TO FORTIFY HARBIN.

LONDON, June 2.—A Moscow dispatch says that Harbin will be fortified against the contingency of a seige without loss of time and irrespective of expense; that heavy seige guns are being dispatched by rail east from St. Petersburg, are really destined for Harbin, and that a considerable number of heavy land guns are to be removed for the same purpose from Kronstadt and other fixed forts.

RUSHING WIJU RAILROAD.

SEOUL, June 2.—Grading has been finished for a distance of twenty-five miles from Seoul on the Wiju railroad, with all necessary bridges constructed for fifteen miles out. It is expected that the road will be reached by the beginning of December.

ESCAPES FROM PORT ARTHUR

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—A dispatch from Mukden to-day, reports that Lieutenant-Colonel Godrke has reached there from Port Arthur, having successfully passed the Japanese lines.

WALSH GIRL TOOL OF A SCOUNDREL

low Brothers since a year ago, when they purchased the store from George C. Herbert. She was intrusted with the buying of much of the stuff which she subsequently stole, and exercised a practical superintendency over the store.

Several weeks ago the firm began to miss money and articles of merchandise. So implicit was their faith in Miss Walsh that they took her into their confidence and she assumed them that she would help them find the thief. She indicated another girl, a fellow clerk, as a possible culprit, and a watch was begun.

Marked bills were given to the suspects in exchange for purchases, but in each case the bills turned up all right at the cashier's desk. Finally the home came down to Miss Walsh, and it was decided to try a decoy on her. Inspector Colby, who had been working on the case, detailed Patrolman Stacy Burckes to make a purchase at the store with a marked $5 bill. The article purchased cost $4.65. The marked money did not appear at the desk. Later another decoy $10 bill was sent in with the same result.

TAKES ARREST CALMLY.

Miss Walsh was sent for by Mr. Mendelow. Inspector Colby was waiting for her and informed her that he had a warrant for her arrest. Without a tremor she inquired the charge.

"For larceny," said Colby.

"Why, that is impossible," said Miss Walsh coolly. "I never stole a cent in my life."

Her demeanor did not change after she was sent to police headquarters nor today. She talked of her case in a rather impersonal way and did not appear to regard it as of great seriousness. She declared to-day that she was engaged to marry a traveling salesman, and expressed the wish that he was in town to help her. She sought the aid of several prominent lawyers, but to-day was sorely for her in the sum of $5,000, but failed.

When she was searched by the matron at Police Headquarters $49.50 was found in her clothing. She admitted that the money belonged to her employers, although it was not marked.

Mrs. Charles H. Pray, mother of Miss Walsh, said to-day to an AMERICAN reporter:

"I cannot believe my daughter guilty. I have not entered her chamber for four years, for I have been an invalid all that time. I saw her last yesterday noon, and she then told me that some girl friends were coming to call on her to-day, and that she had been granted leave of absence.

"She is engaged to marry Mr. William Davenport, of New York city. He was here only last Monday, and we all went for a ride. Mr. Davenport is a member of the firm of Davenport & Co., of New York, and I am anxious to communicate with him, but I have not his street address. Lottie's father, William Walsh, was killed on the railroad at Somerville that he was only two years old.

Prostrate With Grief.

"I am afraid that I will never see Lottie again. I have been nearly prostrated ever since the officers came and searched the house. They took many of my own things, pictures, books, etc., from my parlor. Mr. Mendlow claiming that they had been taken from his store. I don't think they had any right to do this but they would not listen."

Boston baseball operators say they have a corner on all the preferred baseball chances in the national market and will squeeze these New York "shorts" till they'll be glad to buy off at any price.

A wireless to the BOSTON AMERICAN says:

"Waldorf-Astoria, N. Y., June 2, 1904. "New York offered at 7 to 10 with few takers. Fear Boston has market cinched."

At 9 o'clock this morning dispatch from the Boston market came into the BOSTON AMERICAN'S sphere of radio-activity:

"State Street, 10 a. m.

"After one glance at the New York team Boston Stock Exchange had another sharp rally, several large blocks of same thing bets being snapped up at 5 to 3 on Boston. New York operators are trying to hedge."

Hovey a Prominent Player.

Hovey, of tennis fame, is prominent among the Boston players. Palan, Phillips, Foster and Hayes are recent athletic stars from Harvard.

State Street will drop the ticker as much as possible to-day to take in the game. The mysterious movements to occur will be forgotten for a while and Amalgamated can go where it listeth. Three-baggers and home runs have the call over "corners" and "nighths." "Bulls" and "Bears" are "rooters" and "fans" for the time being.

BEER BREAKS UP A CHURCH CLUB

Special to the Boston American.

NEW BEDFORD, June 2.—The discovery of several cases of beer in the rooms over the club of St. Martin's Catholic chapel Church has split the organization and may result in a trial before the church board. Half the members will use the other half, claiming that the club's name has been injured.

The beer was found by the rector, Rev Preston Barr. Then the books of the club were discovered to be missing, and have not yet been found. It is alleged that the club has sold beer for months.

PITTSFIELD CONTRACTORS FAIL.

PITTSFIELD, June 2—Dodge & Devaney, contractors and builders, of this city, find it impossible to meet their financial obligations. Their liabilities are about $100,000 and assets about $85,000.

JUMP OFF CAR MAY KILL HER

Little hope is entertained to-day for the recovery of Mrs. M. Waters, the Dedham woman who sustained concussion of the brain in jumping from a runaway car on the Old Colony line in Norwood.

The car was making the trip from East Walpole to Dudley street terminus station in Boston. As it neared the switch at the High Bridge the brake refused to work. There is a steep grade and the car gained speed rapidly.

A panic ensued, and women screamed in terror as they clung to their seats, expecting every moment that the swaying car would leave the rails. Motorman Kennedy was thrown from the car as it struck the switch. Conductor Bishop shut off the power and succeeded in stopping the car but not before three women and a man had jumped. All who remained on the car escaped without injury.

The injured were:

Mrs. M. Waters, Dedham, suffering with concussion of the brain.

Mrs. J. Sweeney, Court street, Dedham, seriously cut and bruised.

Mrs. Mary B. Manning, of 110 Walnut avenue, Norwood, badly bruised and arm broken.

An Italian, name unknown, badly bruised and cut.

BOSTON PAYING HIGHEST WAGES

In every department except the Health Department the rate of wages paid by the city of Boston to its employes is in excess of every other city in the State. In Brockton the health employes are better paid than here. New Bedford and Boston pay the same rate, $5.

According to statistics compiled by Charles F. Pidgin, chief of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics of Labor, the eight-hour day is in operation in every city in the State.

The Boston Bath Department pays mes sengers $2 a day, but allows only $1 a day for pianists, not recognizing at all the commanding as high a price as log talent.

A horse blanket repairer in the Sanitary Division receives $2.25 a day. In the Sewer Division there are veterinary dentists' assistants at $2.50 a day, and the street Paving Division employs automobile drivers at $2 a day.

The prevailing daily wage paid in fee cities is $2. North Adams pays the lowest, $1.50; New Bedford pays from $1.50 to $2.25, Woburn pays $1.66 and $1.75, Pittsfield and Springfield follow with $1.75, Fitchburg $1.75 to $1.80, Waltham $1.80 and $2, Brockton $2.25, Everett, Fall River, Lowell and Worcester as high as $2.50 a day, while Boston pays city laborers from $2 to $3.50.

Boston pays the highest wages to laborers in the Water Department—from $2 to $3.50 a day, and in the Sewer Division from $2 to $2.75.

"While the reports made to this office by manufacturers, it is evident that the situation this spring is distinctly worse than while compared with the corresponding period of 1903, but there is a feeling among manufacturers that the present depression is of a temporary character."

DEED TO CHURCH PEW HELD AS SULLY ASSET

NEW YORK, June 2.—An unexpected echo has been heard of the Sully failure.

The deed for the pew in St. Bartholomew's Church reached Sully's office after the receivers took charge. Mr. Sully demanded the document, which he said was exempt.

Upon the advice of counsel for the receivers the deed has been held among the assets, pending the appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy.

MIRRORS GONE; TAG GIRLS SAD

"An' Ah wants dem mirrors back," cries the distressed damsel in the tag department of the Thomas G. Plant shoe factory, Jamaica Plain.

"No, you don't," replies the obdurate head of the department. "You girls were fixing your hair more than you were booking tags. We'll try it without looking glasses for awhile."

A feminine howl went up in the Plant tag department when the twelve pretty girls employed there found their looking glasses had been taken down. These glasses had been in constant use. Any day the "boss," as the girls call him, happened to notice a girl at the mirror. Ten minutes later he glanced up and she was there still.

"Huh," says the "boss," "wonder whether this is a tag department or a beauty show." The mirrors went.

MISS PHIPPS WINS IN RAIN

Special to the Boston American.

WOLLASTON, June 2.—Despite the drizzling rain on the Wollaston Golf Club's links to-day, the survivors of the championships gathered and play was resumed. Miss Anita Phippe, of the Country Club, defeated Miss Harriett S. Norris, Commonwealth Club, 7 up and 5 to play, while Miss Fannie C. Osgood defeated Miss Mollie Adams, 3 up and 2 to play.

The course was naturally heavy, but the players were in rainy day garb and play was continuous. Miss Phipps showed remarkably strong in the boxing course and her set drive was one of the prettiest of the tournament.

SALOON IS DYNAMITED BY TEMPERANCE FOLK

PERRY, Ind., June 2.—The saloon of Frank Monders was destroyed and the residence adjoining partly wrecked by dynamite at North Grove, a radical temperance community, ten miles south of here this morning. The town has been without a saloon for many years and a license was recently obtained. Two people were injured and the explosion is the result.

"MAY DAY" CELEBRATED AT MT. HOLYOKE COLLEGE

SOUTH HADLEY, June 2.—"May day" was celebrated at Mt. Holyoke College today. The feature of the celebration was the presence of the Ben Greet company of English players, which gave two Shakespearian performances.

Most of the customary exercises were omitted this year. The weather was fine and clear. Miss Gertrude Dwight, of the class of 1904, was May queen.

NEW LAW IN FORCE FOR NEW YORK AUTOISTS

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Hill automobile law went into effect to-day. Every owner of an automobile must file with the Secretary of State his name and address, with a brief description of his machine and a $2 fee. He then gets a number, which he is to be displayed on the rear of the vehicle. The law has elaborate speed provisions, the range being from four to twenty miles an hour.

The route will be through New York, Connecticut and to Rhode Island to Somerdeston and crossing by ferry there to Newport, with a night's stop at New London or New Haven. The trip will take two days, as there is not to be a time record made. Relay horses will be distributed at fixed points.

At the Newport end of the Sandpoint-Jamestown ferry the Vanderbilt public coach Viking will be in waiting and the party will drive to Oakland Farm for luncheon.

SCORE HURT IN IOWA WRECK

Special to the Boston American.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 2.—Eastbound on St. Paul Railway encountered a washout between Herndon and Perry this morning and was wrecked.

More than a score of persons were seriously injured, receiving broken arms and legs. The only fatal injury was that of Conductor Shafer, of Milwaukee, a soldier returning from the Philippines.

MAY ARREST WHOLE VILLAGE

Charged by their neighbors in Wakefield with being continual disturbers of the peace, Michael Deady, seventy, and his wife, Margaret, sixty, were arraigned before Judge Bruce in the Malden District Court to-day and were required to furnish bonds in the sum of $300 for their future good behavior.

Deady maintained that the noise and confusion incident to life in Wakefield was caused by his neighbors, all of whom insisted in preserving quiet about the Deady household. "If that is the case," remarked Judge Bruce, "we will have to arrest the entire village of Wakefield if this trouble is repeated."

TRAVIS IN FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY DEFEATS ENGLAND'S GOLFING CHAMPION, HILTON

WALTER J. TRAVIS, THE GOLF CHAMPION.

Playing in Splendid Form, He Has Good Chance of Victory.

Coolness and Nerve of American Under Adverse Conditions Remarkable.

LONDON, June 2.—Walter Travis, the American champion, to-day continued his victories in the golf tournament at Sandwich, by defeating Hilton, the English ex-champion, by a score of five up and four to play. This makes Travis's fifth victory. He is playing in fine form and has an excellent chance of winning the trophy. He has now won the right to play in the semi-finals.

Maxwell, the present English champion, was to-day defeated by Hutchinson, an Englishman, at the nineteenth hole.

Travis is now the only American left in the tournament. E. M. Byers, the Pittsburg crack and runner-up in last year's championship in the United States, D. Emmett and W. W. Burton having gone down to defeat before the superior work of the Englishmen.

Travis's title as American champion has been won by a series of consistent plays, which no amateur in America has ever equalled. He is the only man in this country to win the amateur championship three times.

Travis is an Australian by birth, but learned the game in this country. He made his first appearance as an aspirant for championship honors in 1896, when he was defeated in the finals by Finlay S. Douglas. The next year he was again defeated by Douglas in a close match, but in 1900 had his revenge by defeating the champion in a signal manner in the most sensational finish ever seen on an American golf links.

Again in 1901 he and Douglas were pitted against one another in the finals, but Travis's superior nerve showed itself and he was again returned the winner after a notable struggle. He lost he championship in the play at Chicago in 1902, but retrieved his lost laurels by defeating Byers of Pittsburg last year.

LOVE VS. RICHES, SHE TAKES LOVE

Chicago Beauty Discards Her Family's Choice as Her Husband.

ELOPES WITH SWEETHEART

"I shall marry a poor man if I wish to. I have money enough to keep us both."

Miss Bertha Cleveland, a wealthy Chicago beauty, was the young woman who made this declaration of independence. Denning Luxton, a traveling salesman for a Boston piano house, was the poor man to whom she referred.

Miss Cleveland is now Mrs. Denning Luxton. The couple's romantic elopement has created a sensation in society circles in Boston, New York and Chicago, where Mrs. Luxton is well known.

Discarded Young Capitalist.

Miss Cleveland's elopement was made all the more romantic by the fact that all arrangements for her wedding to George Baldwin Barnett, son of a New York capitalist, had been made before the heiress decided to follow the dictates of her own conscience and marry the man whom she really loved.

Miss Cleveland took advantage of a woman's privilege to change her mind. She met Luxton after a long separation. Knowing that her family would not consent to her marriage to the salesman, the latter found her willing and ready for a runaway wedding.

Groom Well Known Here.

Luxton is well known in Boston, and the news was received to-day with much surprise by his many friends and acquaintances in the piano business, and especially at the Vose Piano Company, whose Western agent he was.

During his several years' connection with the company he has been here many times, and although he has no family connections in Boston he went about a great deal socially and is very popular.

E. W. Furbush, the vice president of the Vose Piano Company, said: "I have known Denning Luxton for several years, and he is a very bright, capable fellow, and I understand that he is very popular in Chicago society.

PEACE LOVERS IN CONFERENCE

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., June 2.—Boston is well represented at the tenth annual conference on international arbitration here. Among the 300 persons in attendance are the Rev. George E. Horr, Rev. S. F. Hershey, a number of representatives of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Samuel C. Capen, Robert Treat Paine, Edward D. Mead and Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood, who read the review of the year in arbitration.

Addresses were made by Rabbi Fleischer of Boston, ex-Mayor Cobb of Newton, the Rev. Lyman Abbott, Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Thomas Nelson Page, General James Grant, J. P. Ralston and Charles M. Pepper, United States Pan-American Railroad Commissioner.

VACATIONS ARE ABSURD HABIT

—RUSSELL SAGE

NEW YORK, June 2.—Russell Sage, financier, airs his views on annual vacations in the latest issue of the Independent. His article, which he prefaces with the statement that in the eighty-three years of his career he has not once had a vacation may be interesting by the thousands of clerks, toiling in hot offices, weary salesmen and others who are thinking at this season of green fields, cool woods and sea-breezes. Mr. Sage says:

"I have never been an advocate of what some term the 'vacation habit.' When I was a boy the practice was not in vogue. As a matter of fact, I was so glad to get a chance to learn business that the idea of asking my employer to make me a present of two weeks of the time that belonged to him because he had paid for it, would have been preposterous.

AKRON, O., June 2.—Half a dozen persons were injured, some seriously, by an explosion at the plant of the B. F. Goodrich Company.

LOVE TRIUMPHS OVER RED TAPE

Special to the Boston American.

FITCHBURG, June 2.—Cov Cupid achieved another triumph over time-musty laws and numerous other obstacles yesterday, when, in the parlor of the Hotel Johnsonia, Miss George Belle Gardner and the Rev. Samuel Duff Anderson, of Sonyea, N. Y., were married.

Mr. Anderson had journeyed to Concord, N. H., for the purpose of marrying Miss Gordon, but when he applied for a license he learned that he must reside in the State of New Hampshire for at least five days before he could be married in the State.

Not having time to fulfil this requirement, a quick trip was made here, where, within two hours after their arrival, the happy young couple were united in marriage by the Rev. A. L. Snell, of the First Baptist Church.

BATH, Me., June 2.—The four-masted schooner Louis Bossert, built for Louis Bossert & Son, of New York, has been launched from the Kelley, Spear Company yard.

FROM SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

A chapter of Theta Nu Epsilon has been established by students of Wesleyan University in Boston, fifty B. U. students being initiated.

The largest meeting of the Boston University convocation ever held has taken place in Jacob Sleeper Hall. Rev. C. W. Blackett, of Winthrop, presided.

Only two "co-eds" made Phi Beta Kappa at Tufts this year, the announcement of Professor Frank G. Wren. Six of the graduating class were elected.

Commencement week has opened at Lasell Seminary with the seniors' reception. To-night a concert will be given, and the exercises will continue daily until Tuesday.

The graduation exercises and reception of the School of Domestic Science and Christian Work have been held in the gymnasium of the Berkeley street building.

The Alumni Association of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., has held its annual reunion and ball. The anniversary celebration opened with services in the chapel to-day.

JURY HAS FATE OF LEAVITT IN ITS HANDS

Case of Alleged Stealing of $100,000 Now Awaits A Verdict.

45 COUNTS CONSIDERED

At just four minutes before noon to-day the jury in the Superior Criminal Court, which has been considering the $100,000 larceny case against Elmer E. Leavitt for nearly two weeks, retired to consider a verdict.

Leavitt is charged with stealing, by means of false representations, $50,000 each, from the National Union and National Exchange Banks on commercial paper of the firm of Lamkin & Foster. There are forty-six counts in the indictment, on each of which the maximum penalty is five years imprisonment in State's prison at Charlestown.

Leavitt was for years the financial man and office head of the well-known shoe and rubber company of Lamkin & Foster, in Congress street, which failed in the Spring of 1903.

The evidence at the present trial showed that in March, 1902, the firm had an account at the National Bank of Redemption, where W. S. H. Stevens was an assistant cashier. Stevens was reduced to the position of clerk and then sought a position at the National Union Bank under President Hooper.

Mr. Stevens, as part of the business brought to the Union, introduced Leavitt and his paper was made with President Harold Murdock, of the National Exchange Bank. At the time the deal was concluded Leavitt exhibited a statement of the assets and volume of business done by his firm during the year previous.

For a year business went on between the parties, loans being made to Leavitt's firm in amounts ranging from a little over one hundred dollars up to $250,000. In February of 1903 Leavitt was ill and did not forward a statement of the business promptly, and it was called for by telephone from the bank. Finally it was sent and further loans were given.

In June the firm went into bankruptcy and an auditor went over the books. He found that the firm had not been in the condition which was set out in Leavitt's statement and a warrant was consequently issued for his arrest.

He left the city, but last fall returned, and surrendered himself, was arraigned last February and put on for trial the present term.

SAYS BOY FIRED HOME 3 TIMES

After keeping his parents in terror for two months, eleven-year-old Paul Danforth was arraigned to-day in the Roxbury Municipal Court.

The boy is accused of setting three fires within two months. He admits that he started the first fire in his home yesterday, and told Fire Marshal's Aid Dunn he had set several fires which his parents had quenched.

Three weeks ago, so Mr. Dunn says, he arose from bed at 10 p. m., and, going to a closet where his own and his brother's clothes were hanging, he filled the pockets with rags and set fire to the garments. The damage was $60.

The firemen yesterday found Paul standing on the sidewalk with his hands and pockets full of matches. Captain Hanley found the fire was caused by a blaze started in a heap of papers in Paul's room.

GRANDCHILD OF LOWELL WED

Surrounded with the greenery of palms and ferns and the rich bloom of flowers, Miss Lois Barnett, granddaughter of James Russell Lowell, was to-day united in marriage with Edward Lambert Bangs, of Salem, the ceremony being performed in Christ Church, Cambridge, by Bishop Lawrence.

In spite of the inclement weather the edifice was crowded with the friends of the handsome bride and the popular groom. Miss Barnett was escorted to the altar by her father, former Congressman Edward Barnett, of New York.

Miss Esther Lowell Burnett and Miss Harriet Rantoul were the maids of honor. The best man was Beverly Rantoul and the ushers included Stanley Cunningham, Jr., T. Russell Sourse, Joseph Burnett, Francis Burnett, Chester G. Burrell, Edward N. Fenno, Jr., Frank G. Thompson and Robert H. Stevenson, Jr.

500 IRISH LAND FROM IVERNIA

Among the passengers on the Cunarder Ivernia, a freight steamer, which arrived in Boston today from Liverpool and Queenstown, were Paul de Costa, a celebrated French cyclist, who is on his way to the St. Louis Exposition; Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hathaway, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence and Miss E. P. Lawrence, of Brookline, all of whom are returning from a tour abroad.

The Ivernia brought in 1,300 passengers, sixty-nine in the cabin, 159 in the second cabin and 1,072 in the steerage. One-half of the latter are Irish, who are on their way to the west.

CHOKE BLAZE OFF AT START

Looking with a lighted match for the numbers on a slab of marble that was packed in excelsior was responsible for a small blaze in the storeroom of Joseph H. Young, Nos. 80 and 82 High street, this morning. The damage was about $5. The excelsior caught between the cases and there was a merry blaze.

Stored in the room was a quantity of leather merchandise owned by G. W. Varney, of No. 87 High street. All the stock was uninjured. The fire was out before the department arrived.

CROSSES OCEAN TO WED SCOTCH LADDIE

Romance of Miss Agnes Donnachie and Alex Campbell to End at Altar in Boston.

With her trim little figure enveloped in the folds of a long, heavy ulster and her mass of curly brown hair almost hidden beneath a golf cap, Miss Agnes Donnachie, the bonnie Scotch lassie who comes to America to be wedded to Alexander Campbell, golf instructor at the Brookline Country Club, braved the wind and the rain which swept the decks of the big Cunard liner, Ivernia, as the steamer slowly threaded her way up Boston harbor early this morning.

Alex Campbell was the first to board the steamer. Unmindful of the crowd of passengers who had become acquainted with the facts of the Scotch maiden's romance on the long trip across the ocean, Miss Donnachie ran to his arms and received her laddie's embrace.

The happy couple soon hurried away to the home of friends on Mr. Campbell, where Miss Donnachie will complete arrangements for her wedding, which is to take place June 14.

MISS GILES IS COTTON QUEEN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Now that Daniel J. Sully has been deposed as cotton king, what could be more appropriate than that there should be a cotton queen, and as such Miss Kathryn Giles is eligible. It was due to her work that the cotton market broke over $2 a bale to-day to the lowest level of the year.

Miss Giles is a cotton statistician, and on Tuesday she completed her first crop estimate and sent it to her subscribers. Her estimate showed that the condition was eighty-two, a few points below the average, but much above the per centage of seventy-four of last year.

The market opened at 12.55, but dropped to 11.51 just before the close, and Miss Giles is blamed.

Miss Giles is about twenty-five years old and has been associated with Wall Street methods for a number of years. She can tell in a moment how many bales of cotton a state has produced in the last twenty years and in many other ways is quite a wonderful young woman.

WAR TACTICS IN CONCORD.

NASHUA, N. H., June 2.—War maneuvers will take place at the annual encampment of the First Brigade in Concord this month. It is the plan of General Tolles to have part of the command leave camp and endeavor to get back without being discovered.

FAIL TO SOLVE DEATH MYSTERY

The police have been unable to lift the veil of mystery that shrouds the identity of the young woman who was found dead on the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, near Savin Hill, Dorchester, with her body badly mutilated by a train.

Medical Examiner Draper said that, in his opinion, the girl killed herself. The police not finding any evidence to the contrary, are of the same opinion. There are others who believe that the young woman may have been murdered and her body thrown upon the track.

The body is still at the morgue, and, as the facts has not been married, it should be easy of identification.

Here is a description of the dead woman:

Age, 30 years; height, 5 feet 6 inches; weight, 115 pounds; hair, dark brown; complexion, dark; eyes, blue; teeth, front upper jaw one gold, one porcelain on pivot, others perfect; clothing, black dress and sack, white underwear, stockings black, shoes black laced, No. 5.

Henry Atkins, of the Crescent Avenue station, said that he had seen the girl wandering about the vicinity on several occasions, but he did not know who she was.

FORGIVENESS.

By ALFRED AUSTIN,

Poet Laureate of England.

(From The Independent of June 2, 1904.)

How holy with the dead can grow the heart
And with fresh deeds let all begin anew.
Why longer amid shrivelled leaf-drifts tread,
When buds are coming, flowers amidst peeping through?
Seen through the ruts of the vanished years,
How trivial seem the struggle and the crown,
How vain past feuds, when reconciling tears
Course down the channel worn by vanished frowns,
How less mean half the bitterness they speak!
Words more than feelings keep us still apart,
And, in the heat of passion and of pique,
The tongue is far more cruel than the heart;
Were love alone stakes it worth while to live,
Let all be soon forgiven and forgot.

PLATT TELLS STORY OF NEGRESS'S NET.

LOVE COST HIM $685,000

MRS HANNAH ELIAS.

SHE WHEEDLED $685,000 OUT OF OCTOGENARIAN PLATT.

Old and Helpless in Her Toils, He Paid Extortionate Demands for Years.

NO plot of Balzac, or Hugo, or Dickens contains so strange a thread as that which runs through the story now told by aged John R. Platt, wealthy, respected, honorable, who fell into the toils of the handsome negress, Hannah Elias, eight years ago, and has since been despoiled by her of a vast fortune, amounting, in the aggregate, to nearly $700,000.

A maiden of rare beauty, but without shame or conscience, the woman's struggle for gold became successful when she met Platt.

He had a family. He was universally respected. He lived close to the straight and narrow path. He had a great accumulation of wealth. The woman set a trap for him. He walked blindly into it. Then the door shut and he found himself in the absolute power of the dusky adventuress, who preyed upon his purse as the vampire bat of South American preys upon its sleeping victims. He did not realize it at all at once—the vampire's victim does not awake until too late. When Platt realized his position he met her demands for money. Again and again he gave her great sums.

BACKED DEMANDS BY THREATS.

There came a day when to her exorbitant demands were added threats to tell the old man's daughters. The demands were too heavy; the old man would not pay; in striving for too much the woman had overreached herself and killed the goose that laid the golden egg. Her greed defeated her.

Fourscore and five is Platt's age and his white head is bowed with shame to-day at the strange fascination exercised by this woman, a fascination he cannot explain himself. He feels today that he was right who wrote, in the name of Solumon:

"But if a man live many years, and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of darkness; for they shall be many. All that cometh is vanity. . . . Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher; all is vanity."

NEW YORK, June 2.—John R. Platt has now told the story of his first meeting with Hannah Elias.

"I first met her about twenty years ago," he said, "when she was a little girl of sixteen or seventeen, in a house in Twenty-seventh street. I visited the house several times after that, but within a short time I lost track of her.

"I never saw or heard of her again until about nine years ago, when, being troubled with rheumatism, I read an advertisement in the paper that a certain Mrs. Elias would cure rheumatism by massage. I did not know at the time whether the operator was male or female at the time I read the advertisement, but sent to the address given and was surprised to find that the advertiser was none other than the pretty little girl, now grown into full womanhood.

"She treated me for rheumatism for several months, and I did get better. One day she expressed the desire to give up the massage business and start a boarding house and as she had done me valuable service in relieving me of my rheumatism, I volunteered to start her in the boarding house business. I don't remember how much I gave her.

"I was born in this city, on Cedar street, in 1826. My wife died many years ago, and I always tried to lead an honorable life until in my old age I got caught in the net of this negro adventuress.

"It comes pretty hard for an old soldier to be disgraced at the end of his career, but I am going to retrench in as good order as possible."

Became More Exacting.

"This woman's demands became more and more exorbitant, and finally she began to threaten to tell my family all about my connection with her. Until recently, however, she never actually went to any of them, but when I failed to meet an extra heavy demand she made upon me, she sent some one to see my brother, Isaac S. Platt, the president of the Buckeye Reaper & Mower Company. My brother was told by this emissary of the Elias woman that I had not been paying up promptly enough lately, and in a more emphatic manner that unless I did better by her she would see that my married daughters were made acquainted with all the circumstances.

"When my brother told me of this call upon him we talked the whole matter over, and called my brother-in-law into consultation with us. It seemed to all of us that this woman was determined not only to get all the money out of me that she could, but to ruin my reputation in the end under any circumstances, and we therefore concluded that, as exposure appeared to be inevitable, it might as well come now as at any other time, and especially better now than to wait until she had completely ruined me financially. If I had given the woman my very last dollar I suppose she would have followed it up with wealthy and would have had me up in some pecuniary proceedings to be certain that I had no money left."

Payments Since 1895.

These are the amounts that Mr. Platt declares he gave Mrs. Elias:

1895,	$10,075.
1897,	$30,250.
1898,	$62,000.
1899,	$51,000.
1900,	$84,265.
1901,	$87,087.
1902,	$124,200.
1903,	$100,000.
1904,	$31,533.

The Elias woman is a prisoner in her home, deputy sheriffs and detectives, armed with a warrant, issued for Mr Platt in a suit for $85,000, for her arrest surrounding her handsome house in Central Park West. All night the officers camped on the steps of her house ready, it she appeared, to seize and take her to jail.

The negress defies the officers, refusing to admit them to the house. She denies all the charges made by Platt in the remarkable case, and declares that she did not obtain a dollar from Platt by blackmail, but that every dollar was given to her freely and voluntarily.

The woman, it is asserted, will later surrender and go on the stand, and tell a story that will set the town agape.

240-MILE ZONE BY WIRELESS

IN NEW COAST DEFENCE

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The action of the Navy Department in deciding to retain control of what might be termed "the heart" wireless telegraph along the coast of the United States has aroused much interest. It is the desire of the department for coast defence purposes, to control wireless communication for a distance of twenty-four miles from the shore.

With that end in view, it is establishing stations at intervals along the coast, fitted with a German system, at which it is proposed to receive and transmit messages without cost.

PRICES SAG IN STATE STREET

After the noon hour trading was somewhat more active to-day, but prices as a rule were below the level of the opening.

Manipulation and orders to buy from New York put Sugar common above 127, a reaction later brought it down to 126½. Amalgamated was sold quite heavily, and the price dropped to 49. United Fruit opened late at 110½, a loss of ⅝. American Telephone gained ½, while Steel preferred fluctuated around 53 on a fairly large volume of business. Shannon was quiet, selling around 9.

PASTOR BLOCKED DOOR TO A WOMAN VISITOR

HARTFORD, Conn., June 2.—Because he blocked the door when Miss Mary Hall, of the Board of Charities, attempted to enter the Industrial Institute for the Blind, of which he is the superintendent, the Rev. Charles H. Jones has been ordered to appear in the local police court to answer a charge of assault, preferred by Miss Hall.

JAIL AFIRE; PRISONERS, ONE A WOMAN, IN PANIC

CRIES FOR HELP GAVE ALARM, TAKEN HALF SUFFOCATED TO PLACE OF SAFETY.

Four panic-stricken prisoners, one of them a woman, locked in the basement of the Somerville police headquarters in Bow street to-day, screamed frantically for help, thinking themselves deserted and forgotten, while a fire slowly ate its way toward their cell and smoke rolled into their cells.

The fire started in the rear of the furnace in the west end of the basement. The four prisoners watched the blaze in terror as it grew in size and smoke began to fill the place. Then they began to shout at the top of their voices for help. Janitor Frank Miller heard them and rushed downstairs.

He shouted an alarm to Captain Perry, who was on duty, and seized a line of hose. This proved too short to reach the fire, and a further delay occurred in the hunt for a longer line. By the time this had been secured the flames were beyond the control of the men, and an alarm was turned in from Box 27 summoning the department.

When the department arrived the fire was burning fiercely, and the four prisoners, who were pleading piteously to be released, were taken half-suffocated to the guard room, where they were held until taken into court.

The fire was located directly beneath the police magistrate's bench.

The firemen made short work of the blaze. The damage was estimated at $500.

ILLINOIS IN FOG, BUT NOT ASHORE

Special to the Boston American.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 2. A fisherman sitting at Wood's Hole early this morning reported that a large battleship was ashore off Sc Mau's Land, Martha's Vineyard. This gave rise to much uneasiness in naval circles here, and arrangements were made for the relief of the vessel, which was reported to be the battleship Illinois.

At 10 o'clock this morning the wireless station stationed at the torpedo station picked up the Illinois, and learned she had only encountered because of fog. She is in the vicinity of target practice.

SMUGGLER TO BE SOLD FOR FINES

The notorious smuggling schooner, Sarah E. Lee, will be sold by the United States Government at auction to recover $5,000 in fines imposed for carrying thirty-four passengers in excess of the legal limit. Libels have also been filed by the crew for wages.

The captain is a fugitive from justice. Two of the seven passengers whom he did not succeed in smuggling in, and who were charged by him with being stowaways, although they paid passage, have been married at the detention bureau and released.

GREEK ROBBED BY COVE THUGS

Incensed of having brutally beaten and stole a Greek peddler named Demosthenes Lingus, two brothers, Walter and Edward Smith, of 139 Hudson street, and Harry Mulcey, of East Somerville, were arraigned in the Municipal Court this morning.

Lingus was leaving the restaurant of his stall, Lempesos, about 6 o'clock when Walter Smith, who had been drinking, grabbed him, and another tried to snatch a wallet, containing $50. Mulcey kicked the Greek in the head until he was insensible, it is said.

A waiter in the restaurant notified Policeman Anderson, who learned from a friend that the assailants had gone into the home of Edward Smith, 139 Hudson street. The house was forced, and the two lawless ashers were found crouching in the attic. They were arrested, emerging from the top with a woman.

The Greek identified the men. The wallet and money was not recovered.

ALTERNATES OF NINTH IN ROW

There is a pretty row on in the Ninth Congressional District between the friends of Edward Gagan and those of School Committeeman J. Badarasco, over the claim of each to go to the National Convention at St. Louis as the alternate of William F. McClellan, who has decided not to go.

Mr. Badarasco's name was written first on the ticket, but Mr. Gagan says that as he was the second alternate named he is alternate for the second delegate. The difficulty may be adjusted by the admission of each as an alternate with half a vote.

DRAG RIVER FOR 2 BOYS.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., June 2.—The police are dragging the river for John and Charles Gouldhurn, aged twenty and twenty-two years, who left their home, No. 126 Spring street, last evening for a spin in a canoe. Their clothes were found to-day.

NIECE OF ELIOT A JUNE BRIDE

In King's Chapel, the old church of which her father was pastor until his death a few years ago, and surrounded by a fashionable assemblage of her friends, Miss Dorothea Foote, a niece of President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, was today married to Roger Bigelow Merriam, a son of the Rev. Dr. Daniel Merriam.

President Eliot escorted his niece to the altar, while Mr. Arthur Foote, of Dedham, another uncle of the bride, presided at the organ. The bride's only attendant was her sister.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard N. Brown, the rector of the church. He was assisted by the Rev. Daniel Merriam, father of the groom, and by the Rev. Henry Wilder Foote, Jr., of New Orleans, a brother of the bride.

The best man was Henry James, 2d, and the staff of ushers included Richard Derby, Joseph Porter Cotton, Guilford Lagsley and Lawrence Rabindorf, of New York; with Archibald Cary Coolidge, Robert Walcott, Augustine Derby, Ronald Lyman, John Gorham Palfrey, Charles Jackson and Gordon Means, of this city, together with Charles Dresser, of Worcester.

SHOW TROPHIES OF DENTAL ART

The painless annual meeting of the Massachusetts Dental Society in Mechanics' building brought together 450 teeth and gum experts from all parts of the State.

The exhibits of dental specimens were unusually complete. Teeth of all sorts and conditions were shown, as well as models of various dental operations.

Any number of ingenious ways were shown in which teeth can be lured, scraped, filled, capped, taken out, put in, bridged, crowned, plugged, straightened, mortised, hand-attached, or deckle-edged, according to need.

Articles on "Orthodontia," "Necrosis," "Porcelain Inlays," "Immediate Root Filling" and such technical subjects received close attention.

Retiring President Cooke reported a padding membership of 450, with many applications in line.

Officers elected were: Dr. D. D. Smith, Philadelphia, president; Dr. J. L. Kissman of Cambridge, president elect; Dr. Charles W. Rodgers, of Rochester, secretary; Dr. Joseph T. Paul, of Boston, treasurer; Dr. Thomas W. Clements of Brookline, librarian; Dr. John W. Estabrooks, of Boston, editor.

Puzzle More Time To Work Than Fine

GOOD puzzle weather.

When you are unable to go out to spend your leisure in park or at beach, in what better way can you while away the dull hours than in solving the great brick puzzle?

That is to say:

IF A BRICK WEIGHS SEVEN POUNDS AND A HALF A BRICK, HOW MUCH DOES A BRICK AND A HALF WEIGH?

Do not think it is too easy for you to tackle. Remember that some of the cleverest mathematicians of Boston and of New England have thought it worth their attention.

Here are answers from some of them:

These Say Over 7 and Under 11.

Numberless the great solutions,

As stars; and as the shells
In dereest caverns of the sea,
Free from touch of man as infinity.
Doth lure down to slimy watery dells
Man's thought, so the puzzle
Doth lead us on—so, yet season mustie,
Rule—reason or conjectural trick—
What answer hath the seven-pound brick?

A Novel Solution.

Puzzle Editor: Place two half bricks on one side of a balance and a seven-pound weight and one-half brick on the other side of the balance; then you will find scales equally poised. Then take one-half of a brick from each side of the scales and the scales will remain as before, equally balanced. Then you will observe that you have left in your scales a seven-pound weight on the one side, with a half brick in the other. Now then if one-half brick balances a seven-pound weight, I will not attempt to say that that weight it would require to balance those halves.

Stuck by a thing through which a child should see;
And this in cultured Boston, home of the luscious bean!
Shade of John Harvard, what does this bubbub mean?
So many people who seem to scent a trick
Where none's intended. Puny, inoffensive brick,
Modest, retiring, obscure you'd like to stay.
You cannot, though, for all the crowd is giving you weight.
Speak up, good brick, don't hesitate, and in the front say, "My weight is 14 pounds, and let this turnoil cease."

BOSTON SOCIETY AT CRYDER WEDDING

WITNESSED MARRIAGE OF ONE OF FAMOUS TRIPLETS TO F. LOTHROP AMES.

(Photo by the American Photograph Co.)

MRS. F. LOTHROP AMES, NEE CRYDER.

Boston society was well represented at the wedding in New York of Miss Edith C. Cryder, one of the triplet daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cryder, and Fredrick Lothrop Ames, of this city. Tall and stately, a perfect specimen of the Gibson type of girl, Miss Cryder never looked prettier than in her bridal gown of white chiffon cloth.

Mr. Ames's little nieces, Elise and Olivia Ames, served as flower girls, wearing frocks of pink chiffon and large Leghorn hats trimmed with pink ostrich feather and pink ribbons, which fastened them under the chin.

WHITMARSH GETS $1,334 FOR LOST LOVE

The jury in the case of Charles A. Whitmarsh, who sued the Rev. W. S. Fritch for $30,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections, returned a verdict this morning for $1,334 in favor of the plaintiff.

The verdict was announced in the Superior Court at Brockton at the opening of the court. None of the principals to the suit was in court at the time. The verdict had been reached by the jury last night and handed in sealed.

The verdict was something of a surprise, as it was the general opinion of those who heard the case that Whitmarsh would lose.

Lawyers who heard the case had regarded as significant the remark of Judge White, who presided at the trial, in which he said that Whitmarsh's attitude had been peculiar; that as long as he had no money and depended upon his wife's money for support he seemed to think he had no right to stop the relations with Fritch, but when, last Fall, he got a little money of his own, he made a protest.

Forty-five years old, hair sprinkled with gray, black-eyed and sharp-featured, Mrs. Mabel Whitmarsh acknowledged on the witness stand that she had a deeper affection for the young minister than for her husband.

"I have an affection for Mr. Fritch's characteristics," she said. "After my husband began this suit against Mr. Fritch I felt sorry for my husband. I did not think that he was quite capable of such a deed as that."

"Why did you bring suit for divorce against your husband?"

"Because we had nothing in common as to literary tastes."

A feature of the trial was the reading of letters by the Rev. Mr. Fritch, which he had written to Mrs. Whitmarsh. In one of the letters he said:

"I have every fondness of the lover, but that need not disturb you. I shall feel lack of you. Dry goods are cheap, souls are scarce, but great souls are comparatively few."

TUCKER'S FATE TO BE DECIDED ON NEXT WEEK

The case of Charles L. Tucker, accused of the murder of Mabel Page, will be presented to the Grand Jury when that body convenes at East Cambridge next Monday. A report will be made on Saturday, June 11.

The State is confident that the young man will be indicted, and as there will be no chance for the defence to show its evidence they do not expect anything but that he will be held for trial.

A large mass of expert testimony, in which blood tests will be introduced, promises to be one of the greatest features of the trial. Professor Wood, who has had the blood-stained clothing of Tucker, the blood-stained knife and other articles connected with the crime, has, it is said, completed his analysis.

Although the results of his examination are closely guarded it is said that they are in line with the State's theory of the case. It is believed that Professor Wood will be able to show that the stains on both Tucker's clothing and the broken-bladed knife were made by human blood.

The State has been doing persistent, tenacious work on the case with special reference to placing Tucker nearer the Page house than they were able to do at his preliminary trial.

Tucker's lawyers are not bothering much about the working of the Grand Jury, but are feeling all their efforts in prepare the young man's defence at the trial. They are confident that their client will be acquitted.

Tucker himself maintains the same confidence that has characterized him since his arrest. His health is good, and he seems to have accommodated himself to his quarters in the East Cambridge Jail with cheerful resignation.

THE CHAPERON ON SOCIETY

Great Throng Witnesses Wedding Ceremony of Dr. Beattie and Miss Daggett.

BEAUTIFUL DRESSES WORN

By the Chaperon.

THE Church of the Emmanuel, on Newbury street, was filled to its utmost capacity when the marriage of Miss Sarah Whittemore Daggett and Dr. Robert Beattie took place.

The church was decorated profusely with white sweet peas, which crowned the white marble altar. The boys entered the church in their white robes to the tune of "Perfect Love" as the bride approached the altar, following the six ushers escorted by her nephew, Henry L. Daggett.

She wore a very handsome creation of white duchesse satin, the skirt plain and en traine. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. One of her beautiful jewels, an heirloom, sparkled on her corsage. It was a carved emerald of unusual size, which was surrounded by large pearls.

Dr. Beattie's best man was Dr. Lafayette Gross of this city. The ushers were: Dr. Charles Hare, Leslie Clark, A. Erskine Ing, A. J. Coolidge, Grenville Norcross and Hassel Bruce.

The music was a special feature of the ceremony performed by the Rev. William E. Dowty, assistant rector. Heinrich Schoecker, the harpist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, assisted Mr. Arthur Hyde, the organist.

A reception followed at the Hotel Somerset, where there were a host of one hundred guests present in answer to the many invitations issued. After an extended wedding Dr. and Mrs. Beattie will reside at the Hotel Somerset on Commonwealth avenue.

Weddings, weddings, weddings.

Every church in the city, almost, has already opened its doors for nuptial marriage ceremonies, and the remainder of the week promises to be a busy time for the ministers. Though the first day of June did not prove very pleasant for the first brides of the month, they were married just the same, and received the usual blessings and good wishes. June started in bravely with its wedding list, and from the array of announcements that are at hand this, the bridal month, promises to eclipse any June for several years past.

Boston society was, of course, most deeply concerned in the Thayer-Russell wedding at Lancaster. This was the most important of the affairs of yesterday and the participants were the best known among all of any that were united. The old church at Lancaster is a typical New England country church, and it looked very pretty there than it did when decorated for this ceremony.

The gowns were the most gorgeous that have been seen for months, and people have not ceased to talk about them. They were expensive, as imported gowns are, but a number of them will linger with those that saw them for some time to come. Additional descriptions are not amiss, and for the benefit of those that could not attend they are given herewith:

MRS. ROSALIND ALASSIZ—Pale cream peau de soleil elaborately adorned, large picture hat.

MRS. CHARLES HUNT—White satin duchesse, trimmings of the same shade of lavender, accessories to match, lavender picture hat, in rank ones and shaded flowers.

MRS. ARTHUR—Dark blue net silk lining, with open work border worn over pale green silk, white picture hat.

MISS MARGARET HEAD—Pale mode veiling, large hat of white lace, trimmed in pale blue ribbon.

MISS ELIZABETH DEVENS—Pale rose white satin, trimmed in black lace, small black silk sunshade and string of shell at neck.

MISS SALLY LAWRENCE—Dark brown, with bodice of silk, worn with white net over pale brown cloth.

MRS. JOHN C. FAIRCHILD—White veiling en traine, short of white frill lace, large white picture hat, trimmed in white lace.

MRS. CHARLES HUNT—Pale mode silk, full trained skirt, shirred bodice, vest of white silk, edged with silver passementerie; white picture hat.

MISS MARY HEAD—Pale blue crepe de chine and white net trimmed lace, large hat of blue and white lace bow.

MISS MARGARET HEAD—Pale mode veiling, large hat of white lace, trimmed in pale blue ribbon.

MISS ELIZABETH DEVENS—Pale rose white satin, trimmed in black lace, small black silk sunshade and string of shell at neck.

MISS SALLY LAWRENCE—Dark brown, with bodice of silk, worn with white net over pale brown cloth.

MRS. JOHN C. FAIRCHILD—White veiling en traine, short of white frill lace, large white picture hat, trimmed in white lace.

MRS. CHARLES HUNT—Pale mode silk, full trained skirt, shirred bodice, vest of white silk, edged with silver passementerie; white picture hat.

MISS MARY

LABOR

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL 96 BOSTON, MASS.

BOSTON Cloak and Skirt Makers' Union No. 26 has received notification that President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, will be in this city on Monday to address the opening session of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in Paine Memorial Hall.

Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment of the visiting delegates, and a mass meeting will be held in Paine Memorial Hall Sunday evening, when International President Benjamin Schlesinger and international Secretary B. Braff and a number of local labor leaders will address the delegates.

STRONG FIGHT IS ON.

The Master Painters' Association is putting up a strong fight against the union men now out on strike for an increase in wages of 20 cents per day for painters and decorators. Of the seventy-nine members of the association only one has signed the new agreement with the union. Altogether 125 employing painters have agreed to pay the increased wages. There are 350 employing painters in Boston. Twenty are of the members of the Master Painters' association. Of these not a single one has signed.

The strike so far as it has gone has been in favor of the men, and it was predicted to-day that the firms which are putting up such a strong fight just now would be compelled to give in very shortly, as any attempt to put non-union men to work will result in a sympathetic strike by the other building trades.

$26 UNIONS RESPOND.

The election board of the International Typographical Union has taken up the canvass of the vote for international officers. Six hundred and twenty-six unions have been heard from. The board is in session in Indianapolis. The canvass is expected to take several days.

BOILERMAKERS OUT.

Twelve boilermakers in the employ of the Central New England Railway, at Hartford, are out on strike as the result of an order from the grand lodge of the International Union. It is understood that the grand lodge took the view that the boilermakers on the Central New England should go out on strike in accordance with the recent orders given to boilermakers employed along the New York, New Haven & Hartford system. The Central New England, now being a part of the latter road, the men were obliged to quit work or fail to report yesterday.

It was reported last night that men from New Haven had been sent here to take the places of the men ordered out, but this was denied by the railroad. The strike of the boilermakers has been on for about six weeks.

CHILD LABOR PROBED.

An investigation is being made in Lowell by the State police into the employment of children in the cotton mills. The investigation is the outcome of a report made to the police by the American Federation of Labor. Early in April a committee of the Massachusetts Branch of the American Federation of Labor, consisting of James Smith, Crosbyite; Joseph Lefebvre, Boston Fall River; Representative Charles H. Winslow, of Fitchburg, and Edward F. Mahoney, of Lowell, visited the cotton mills and reported to the State police.

OVER 2,000 MEN OUT.

The big strike of the employes of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, at Sydney, C. B., now involves over 2,000 men. All departments, with the exception of the coke ovens and the electric power station, were shut down. The struggle between the men, who demand the reinstatement of last year's wage schedule, and the company, promises to be one of the most bitter in the history of Nova Scotia labor disturbance.

The strikers, most of whom are members of the Provincial Workmen's Association, declare that not more than 2,500 hands are on duty. No 1 blast furnace was blown out yesterday, No. 4 was shut down, and the open-hearth furnaces will also be banked.

The company's coal supply is sufficient for about five weeks, and an effort will be made to keep the plant in operation with the assistance of those who are willing to work. A strike of thousands of coal miners is threatened if any attempt is made by the Dominion Coal Company to supply coal for non-union labor.

COPPERSMITHS STRIKE.

Coppersmiths' Union No. 58 has indorsed the strike inaugurated yesterday by twenty-one coppersmiths in the factories of E. B. Rooker, Fifth street, and Hicks & Sons, Bowker street, to enforce a minimum rate of wages of $3.50 a day. Early in April Union 58 adopted a scale of $3.50 a day. The strikers have been receiving from $2.75 to $3.50 for a nine-hour work day. Hicks employs seven and Rooker fourteen coppersmiths. A committee interviewed both firms to-day, but they refused to accede to the demands. Among the concerns which have signed are the Atlantic Works, Henry H. Coffman, Jacob Gretzeman and Carl Petersen, all in East Boston, and the Pierce River from Works of Quincy.

The delegates of the Central Labor Union were instructed to bring the matter before that body on Sunday.

PLASTER TOCK HARMFUL.

The stock that is now being used in this city is injurious to limb and eyes of the plasterers called upon to handle it, according to a statement made at a meeting of the Plasterers' Union No. 10 in Paine Memorial Hall. A committee has been appointed to investigate and report at a special meeting of the Union next Wednesday evening.

The nomination of officers were as follows:

For president, David Sizemore, Thomas Quinn, William Bowen, Jr., and Thomas Kelly; for vice president, William Bebel, David Bruce, Thomas Dugan and Michael Carey; for financial secretary, James O'Connor; for treasurer, Patrick O'Connor; for recording secretary, Thomas Kelly; for sergeant-at-arms, Edward Wallace, Fred Hannified and David Bruce; for sergeant-at-arms, James Cowan and Arthur Lewis; for conductor, David Warnock and William Smith.

ELECTRIC MEN TO VOTE.

Electrical Workers' Union 103 will elect officers on Wednesday, June 29. The following have been nominated:

E. H. Bradford and Carl O. Grim for president, J. E. Cassidy and Frank Keefe for vice president, Frank Keefe for recording secretary, Frank Hamilton for financial secretary, Peter Collins and William J. Farrell for business agents, Frank Keefe for press secretary, Tom Gould for treasurer, Frank Keefe for guide, Frank Keefe for warden, Graham for foreman, E. L. Dennis and L. W. E. Kimball for executive board, Frank Keefe, Thomas H. Thomas, Jr., Ray Sanborn, Carl Allaton, J. H. Bell, E. L. Dennis, Ray Sanborn, Carl Allaton, J. H. Bell, Frank Keefe, Frank Keefe, L. D. Brown, W. J. Roberts, Peter Collins, A. Roberts, J. Mortver and Michael Carey for financial examining places, A. W. Barton, J. R. Clark, Carl O. Olin, J. A. Wilson and Peter Collins for inspectors, Frank Keefe, Edward Wallace, Frank Keefe, Thomas H. Thomas, Jr., Ray Sanborn, Carl Allaton, J. H. Bell, E. L. Dennis and Frank Keefe for delegates to the Central Labor Union, Frank Keefe, John J. McLaughlin, Frank Kelly, Fred Clark, W. H. Thomas, W. J. Roberts, R. H. Bradford, Jr.

PARRYISM TAKES HOLD IN STATE

FRANK K. FOSTER WATCHES WITH INTEREST PROGRESS OF "REACTIONARY POLICY."

BY FRANK K. FOSTER.

Parryism has at last found lodgment in this State, a branch of "The Citizens' Industrial Association" having been formed in Springfield. This organization, which is quite powerful in the middle West, where it is called the "Union Buster" by labor men, is secret in its surroundings and works on lines of general antagonism to the purpose of trade unions. It is stated that the Springfield branch cut out the second plank in the so-called Parry platform, which provides for "the adoption of an uniform, legitimate system by which members may ascertain who he is and who is not worthy of employment."

The association stands for the open shop, the protection of members against strikes and boycotts, against the enactment of labor legislation, etc. It will be worth noting just how this reactionary policy will fit in a New England community.

The general Methodist Conference recently held at Los Angeles spoke with no uncertain voice on the question of organized labor. The report of the committee on international and industrial peace stated: "Public opinion is generally and rightly on the side of organized labor."

The organized carpenters of the country have been for a long time divided into two branches, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Carpenters, the latter holding under their head the British Society. Adolph Strasser, ex-president of the Cigarmakers' International Union, was recently instructed with the task of devising some plan by which the two organizations could get together, and he has been so far successful that the preliminaries have already been arranged and a meeting to all likelihood will soon be accomplished. This will make the carpenters one of the numerically strongest craft organizations in the world.

It is positively stated that one of the candidates for the position of chief deputy factory inspector in this State is securing the endorsement of the manufacturers in his district for his appointment. It is thought naturally suggests itself as to whether a deputyship receiving his position in this manner would be in a situation to rigidly enforce the factory laws.

So the Park Commissioners are going to present the owners of fast horses with the use of a portion of the Franklin Field for a speedway. The Commissioners have already been very good to that same portion of the community who are fortunate enough to drive trotters. There has been a very vigorous protest made against the using of the people's playground for the purpose, but the beauty of government by commission is that protests of this kind don't count.

Nothing less than a state of anarchy now exists in Colorado, by the latest report, due to the attempt of the miners to secure an eight-hour working day. The governor of the State, by a vote of 72,800 to 28,226 adopted the Australian amendment to the constitution of the Legislature to pass the following eight hour law:

The General Assembly shall provide by law and shall prescribe suitable penalties for the violation thereof, that eight hours shall constitute a day's work in all underground mines or workings, and other mines or places dangerous for persons employed in underground mines, or other underground workings, blast furnaces, smelters, and ore reduction works or other branches or departments of labor as the General Assembly may consider injurious or dangerous to the public health.

Notwithstanding this mandate, the Legislature did not pass the law, and the evidence is very strong that the bill was defeated by bribery. Both sides resorted to extreme measures, and now the State is confronted by what is the most dangerous crisis in its industrial world since the railway strike in Chicago.

The Ministers' Union, of Columbus, Ohio, elected a delegation to represent it in the Trades and Labor Assembly of that city. The president of the Assembly, however, ruled that the reverend gentlemen were not eligible as delegates.

Boston's proposed labor temple is as yet a castle in the air. It should rightfully take precedence of a too, gentlemen of a philanthropic turn of mind!

DOCTOR ADVOCATED OPERATION PE-RU-NA MADE KNIFE UNNECESSARY

MRS. EVA BARTHO

MRS. EVA BARTHO, 133 East 12th St., New York City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years with leucorrhœa and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much better after I'd keep taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much I was willing to try Peruna first and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Mrs. Senator Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who indorse Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:

"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at times times Peruna has been of great help to me, giving up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep."—Helen Rolof.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Lynn, Mass., is Junior Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, writes as follows:

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and melancholia at times. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna. I have received such results if I would persist and take it regularly. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman to-day."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"I wish to give my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have no headache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

It is no longer a question as to whether Peruna can be relied upon for all such cases. During the many years in which Peruna has been put to the test in all forms and stages of acute and chronic catarrh no one year has put this remedy to a severer test than the present.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and his experience with their troubles, he will immediately reply with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

BIKERS PLAN BIG REUNION

Owing to the tremendous success of the Chestnut Hill Reservoir reunion of wheelmen, Captain A. D. Peck is now making arrangements for another similar meet for Sunday, July 3, on the bank side of Jamaica Pond, corner of Perkins and Tremont streets.

Posters and notices have been sent to the various clubs, asking for their co-operation. If the weather is pleasant there should be a large gathering of cyclists, who will have a splendid chance to fun over old times.

JOCKEY MARTIN SUSPENDED

LONDON, June 2.—H. (Skeets) Martin, the American jockey, has been suspended until June 25, at Epsom. He had the mount on Lady Honoreen, the winner of the Caterham plate, and was disqualified for crossing the horse.

TWIN WINS FIERCE BOUT ON POINTS

Special to the Boston American.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 2.—After a wild slam, bang, poke and jab, hit and clinch finish, in which the principals knocked down the ring posts, kicked over the sponge buckets and beat each other until each was so weak he could hardly swing his tired arms, Jack (Twin) Sullivan, of Boston, was given a well-earned decision over Mike Schreck, of Cincinnati, at the end of their ten-round battle at the Empire Theatre.

It wasn't the fastest fight, the prettiest fight, nor the most scientific fight imaginable, but those who like a good old-fash ioned knock-down and rag-out scrap, where the one object of the game is to hit hard and often, the battle was a complete success.

Sullivan was the cleverer of the two, and in the early rounds put up a defence that Schreck was wholly unable to break down. In the meantime the Boston man used a straight left to the face with damaging effect. Schreck, who appeared to be as hard as a bundle of spikes, recovered rapidly between rounds, and in the final rounds managed to get through Sullivan's defence, but even in these sessions never had anything more than an even break, and was unable to overcome Sullivan's lead in the opening rounds.

Both men were in good shape at the finish, with Schreck probably a shade the fresher and in a condition to have won had the bout gone longer. As it was Sullivan clearly earned the decision on the ten rounds' work.

Sullivan was ably seconded by his brother Mike, while Schreck's manager, "Billy" Hogan, looked after his interests.

Sullivan is a favorite in this city, and he will be matched for another bout before the same club, Schreck has asked for a return bout. The defeat by Sullivan puts quite a crimp in Schreck's aspirations for the middleweight championship.

FEARS HARVARD MEN CAN'T LEARN NEW STROKE IN TIME

Head Coach Colson, of the Harvard varsity crew is beginning to feel that the Crimson oarsmen will not have mastered the Cornell stroke well enough to win from Yale. At present the crew is rowing what Mr. Colson calls an "intermediate stroke," or something half way between the old Harvard and the new Cornell strokes.

The head coach feels that in order to win from Yale the crew will have to row a stroke much more nearly like the Cornell stroke than they are at the present time. As to the probabilities of the crew's improving to the mouth that elapses before the race with Yale, a veteran Harvard oarsman who has watched to progress of teh crew very closely this year said:

Hard Proposition.

"The new stroke is proving a hard proposition for the Harvard men. It is greatly hard for men who have been rowing a stroke like the old Harvard stroke for several years to change in a few months to a new stroke.

"At the present time the crew is in a state of transition from the old stroke to the new. In the month that is left they must learn to row the new stroke, and row it well, in order to be in condition to beat Yale. That they will learn all this in the month that remains—to forget the sharp recovery of the old stroke and to learn that slow, easy recovery, with a full, powerful stroke, is the thing that they will be able to do this seems impossible. At present the crew is a rowing failure, recovering all steadily, but they have not learned the new stroke, and that's the thing that will do the work, and nothing else will.

Why Second Crew Lost.

"The second crew, which raced against Cornell on last Saturday, was rowing the intermediate stroke, and they lost out. It could not have been otherwise. As it stands now Harvard has a crew which Yale can beat easily, but in the month that remains the Crimson oarsmen may learn the new stroke so that they can beat the Blue. I am afraid, though, that this is a physical impossibility, and, though Mr. Colson has worked hard with the men, he has had a tremendous task to perform to effect a complete overturning of a rowing system as well fixed as Harvard's was.

"If Harvard loses it will not be his fault, but rather the fault of those who asked him in one short season to effect a revolution in Harvard rowing, and at the end of that revolution beat a crew which has been rowing the same old stroke for years. The Cornell stroke is a wonder, but Harvard men or no one else can learn it in a day."

JEFF AND JIM ARE THE HEADLINERS

BY TAD

Here, here, this way to the best show on the grounds, friend.

Here's where you get your money's worth and to-day we have all the stars in the world on the bill.

The headliner to-day, friends, is James Corbett, the human magnet. You never saw a man in the world possessing the magnetism this man displays. He will draw you to him just as soon as you come within ten feet of him. No does it all over the country, people. No one can keep away from this man. He will draw a crowd wherever he goes, and not only crowds, people, but return matches, contracts and the like, are all the same to him. He's a pip, people; new potatoes! Don't miss him!

As an extra attraction to-day, we are offering James J. Jeffries, the strong man. We have a team of horses that will pull this man over the color line, but they might as well try and move the Post Office building over to the Back Bay.

What a chance! Nothing can move this man from the ground he stands on, people. The man who can pull him over the color line will never have to work again. The world is his.

Have you ever seen a tattooed man, friends? Well, see the one we have. Ah, that is THE sight. His name is Sharkey, and all the best mitt manipulators in the world have worked on him. He is marked 411 ovres. The weediest marks a man ever carried, and still he walks and eats.

Come and see Eddie Hanlon and Terry McGovern in the tight rope stunt.

Darling men! One is found to take the big dive.

BIG RACES AT CLEVELAND

Harry R. Devereaux and Charles S. Tanner are planning a gala matinee day for Cleveland, the date to be probably some afternoon during August. Every known harness and trotting record will be assailed, and perhaps the long standing saddle record for the pacers, the 2:13 of Johnston (2:06¾ to harness), ridden years ago by George Starr, may be lowered.

Lou Dillon, 1:58¾, will probably be there, and the rest of the Billings stars should be ready for fast miles by that date. At present they are working well, and several of the Cleveland horses are out and about, notably little Hontas Crook, 2:07¼; Louise Jefferson, 2:09¼, and Imogene, 2:11¾. The trio may figure at the Forest City matinees.

CLOSE TENNIS MATCH.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Between showers the tourney of the New York Lawn Tennis Club was continued. The best match was between W. P. Hodgdon, of Harvard, and L. E. Mahan, of Columbia. Each won a hard fought set, and then they were forced to postpone play on account of the rain.

HICKS IN OLYMPIC GAMES.

Only one athlete will represent the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. in the Olympic games at St. Louis, owing to the heavy expense. Thomas J. Hicks, who finished second in the recent Marathon run, will be sent to compete in a similar contest in August.

FAST YACHT LAUNCHED.

BRISTOL, June 2.—What is expected to be one of the fastest boats afloat was launched at the Herreshoff yards. It is the Little Sovereign, built for M. C. D. Borden, of New York. The length is 100 feet and the beam only ten feet. A speed of at least thirty miles an hour is expected.

SCHOOLBOYS TO BOOM SPORTS

Winfield T. Dunn, secretary of the New England Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletics, has sent out over 100 application blanks to schools in this section and the organization should be more powerful in the future.

The custom of joining the Intercollegiate Association and become members by paying yearly dues has been done away with and the only cost to a school is a sanction to run games under its own jurisdiction.

All of the 400 odd schools can enter men in the annual out-door championship meet on Soldiers' Field next Saturday and they will not have to be registered men of the N. E. A. A. A. U. but will be of the constitution of the N. E. I. A. A. A., as the N. E. I. A. A. has recently become an allied body of the N. E. A. A. A. U., akin to the Intercollegiate Association, in order to obtain that power to insure pure athletics being maintained in the Eastern States. Under this arrangement the N. E. I. A. A. A. will have authority to grant sanctions to any schools that desires to hold an open athletic meet.

Notes of the Harness Horses.

Charles Snow, of Nashua, N. H., has purchased of Dr. Bryant the trotting mare Lady Bee, 2:18¾. She will start him in the Nashua Driving Club races.

James Hanley, who bought that strongest of strong, bred trotters, Vara-engineer, and who owns the fastest of all foal Indian pacers, Prince Ideal, 2:04¼, by Prince Ansel, dam Ideal, 2:19¼, (he first he thought his horse could have with 1:50 under the saddle, but it would be hard to get a rider who could bring out his speed and keep him on his stride. There can drive him a mile in 1:50 without a dirt or wind scarid in front of him.

LORD DERBY ALL RIGHT

Special to the Boston American.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Lord Derby, 2:05¾, and Billy Buch, 2:07¼, are both sound again and bid fair to remain so. This is the news George W. Speer, Mr. Hanford's trainer, brought from Louisville yesterday. He expects to return today, and will ship the stable from Louisville to Detroit about June 10, and open the campaign at the Detroit Blue Ribbon meeting.

It was a complaining bind leg that bothered Billy Buch last year, and it was feared the injury was permanent. The trouble this Spring was in the ankle of Hanford's trotter, brought from Louisville to treatment, and the trainer believes the recovery is permanent. Billy Buch has trotted a mile in his preparation in 2:29, and he bids fair to be as fast as he was last year, when he finished the largest money winner of a year in the Grand Circuit. Lord Derby has trotted a working mile in 2:20¼, without any return of the trouble that made it necessary to throw him out of training last year.

SCHOOL CREWS WILL ENTER

Regatta plans for June 17 were arranged at the B. A. A. last night by the clubs belonging to the Metropolitan Rowing Association.

An additional event was placed on the programme for schoolboy eights. This race will be a permanent feature at all future regattas of the organization. Entrance fees will not exceed $10 per crew, which will appeal to the schoolboys.

Invitations have been extended to all the schools active in rowing, including St. Paul's, Groton, Central High, Springfield High, Cascadilla, Worcester High, etc. It is certain that eights from Stone's School, B. A. A. and Union Club will be on the line.

There will be events including senior, junior, intermediate and senior singles; junior, intermediate and senior doubles; intermediate and senior four-oared whaling boats and eights. Officials were chosen as follows: H. L. Wendell, B. A. A., referee; T. F. Eldredge, Shawmut B. C., clerk of course; W. J. Long, Shawmut B. C., assistant clerk; J. J. Bennett, Arlington B. MANY HORSES ENTERED.

LEXINGTON, June 2.—Secretary Wilson expects to receive 300 entries for the October meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association. Two thirds of that number are at hand already. Among the important stakes are: Transylvania, for trotters, 2:12 class, $5,000; Tennessee, for pacers, 2:08 class, $5,000; Mackwell, for four-year-old trotters, 2:25 class, $5,000; Walnut Hill Farm cup, for trotters eligible to the 2:15 class, $5,000; Stoll, for trotters, 2:19 class, $2,000; Johnston, for trotters, 2:24 class, $2,000; Woodford, for trotters, 2:20 class, $2,000; Kentucky, for three-year-olds, trotting, foals of 1901, $2,000; Lexington, for two-year-olds, trotting, foals of 1902, $2,000; Wilson, for pacers, 2:20 class, $2,000.

B.C. PREPS BEAT WALTHAM HIGH

In a downpour of rain Boston College "Prep" defeated Waltham High School by a score of 6 to 3. Waltham was unable to touch Foley, the Preps crack little pitcher, who fanned eight of them. Hayes of the Prep school showed up well with the willow, hitting the ball every time up. The game was called in the sixth on account of rain. The star players of both sides were Foley, McCarthy, Wengerfarg, Fraim and White. The batteries were: Boston College Preps, Foley and McCarthy; Waltham High, Riley and Staples.

SPIDER'S DEFI ACCEPTED.

Walter Marks or Young Parsons, of the Russell A. A., are willing, they say, to fight Spider Welch any time or place, at 115 pounds.

ACTORS WILL PLAY BASEBALL

Lines, both hard and humorous, will be forgotten when nines representing the "Woodland" and "Tale of Spice" companies hold the centre of the American League Park ball field to-morrow afternoon. All the players will be entitled to an equal amount of the stage of old Sol's glorious rays, providing he who occupied authority upon diamond and weaknesses of men.

MUNROE MEETS ALL COMERS AT HIS TRAINING QUARTERS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—If Jack Munroe fails to wrest the world's heavyweight championship from Jeffries, his failure will not be due to lack of strenuous training. Since his arrival on the coast he has plunged into an arduous course of training that would make an ordinary fighter weaker than a good bottle in the ring.

One of the novel features of Munroe's training is his boxing with Tim McGrath's awkward squad of sparring partners. This gives Munroe a chance to meet heavyweights of varied styles.

Since Munroe made it known that he would take any of the good heavyweights during his afternoon sessions, his quarters have been swarmed with aspirants who are anxious to have a workout with the man who hopes to down the champion. They believe it a great thing to stand before Jeffries's next opponent, and they don their gloves willingly and later they are sorry.

There are a few heavies on hand, however, that give the men from the mines plenty of action. Rodenbach, who recently defeated Burger for the amateur heavyweight championship of America, has proved a valuable man to Munroe, and the pair have engaged in lively set-tos.

It is customary for Munroe to take on two and sometimes three boxers in the afternoon. The heavier the men the better he likes it. He is getting himself used to big size.

Joe Millett and "Big" Casey, who worked with Bob Fitzsimmons when the latter trained for his bout with Gardner, have been added to Munroe's sparring staff, and the pair can give as well as take a good wallopping, which is usually the case when they spar with Munroe, one after the other.

Here are pictures of the Boston Nationals, taken by a BOSTON AMERICAN photographer at the Columbus avenue grounds before the rain began. Veteran Dick Cooley is the man with outstretched arms, waiting for a fly. Delehanty, the third baseman, is at the top, while Geier, the centre fielder, was also "caught" ready to nab a high one. Cooley is making a great record with the bat this year, and is proving a terror to all the twirlers. In the field he is as sure as ever, and his average is a top-notcher. All three men are doing their best for Tenney's Club.

THREE SPEEDY NATIONALS.

FRESHMAN CREW IS STILL IN BAD WAY

As a result of the illness of the cub crew at Freshman crew at Harvard last week, due to careless practice in their boat or to drinking too much ice water during the warm days, the crew has changed its training tables to the Harvard Union. Hereafter the '07 oarsmen will be under the direct charge of Trainer "Jack" McMasters, who will have charge of the preparation of the food served the young oarsmen as he does for the baseball team and varsity crew.

It is acknowledged now that the members of the crew were pretty sick and, although this was denied at first Freshman Coach Smith said to-day:

"The men were all very sick. The night before the race with the Stone crew our men were all very weak so that the defeat to that crew could not have been helped as our men were in no condition to row. The Worcester race was cancelled for this reason, as the men are still feeling pretty weak and only to-day has rowing been resumed. This is a great setback to the crew in the preparation for their race with the Yale Freshman crew, and makes the outlook pretty dark for a crimson victory. The men are getting strong again and will work hard from now on."

The Freshman management hopes to raise the necessary funds, so that the crew will be able to go into training quarters at New London on June 15, when the varsity crew will open up their quarters there. The money is being raised among the members of the Freshman class, and the last $500 is necessary it is expected that the money will be got in time.

SCHOOLBOYS IN FIELD GAMES

Interscholastic track championships will be held next Saturday on Soldiers Field and sixteen schools have made entries that foot up to 125.

Exeter, Andover and Worcester Academy, the three leading prep schools, will have their best athletes compete and will probably secure the most of the points. Exeter has defeated Andover in a dual meeting and will find Worcester Academy harder game. All the local schools are well represented and they will figure here and there in the different events. Private schools from Springfield, Lowell, Lawrence and Weymouth will send delegates, which adds interest.

In the 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes there are over twenty boys entered in each event, and the remainder of the program has an equally good showing. Several past champions will be on hand to try to retain their titles, and they will have to extend themselves against the talent entered.

Exeter and Worcester Academy will fight it out in the dashes, with Higgins of the former school a big favorite on account of fast time made. It will be the same story in the half-mile, with Archer of Exeter, and Shirk, of Worcester Academy, as the principals.

C. C. O'Connell of Dedham High, the school champion miler, is in again and will have hard work disposing of W. D. Farrell, of Mechanic Arts High.

Exeter, at Exeter, looks like a good thing in the high jump, and the other field events will be well divided.

N. Y. A. C. ATHLETES OFF.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Athletes who are to represent the New York Athletic Club in the Amateur Athletic Union championships at St. Louis to-morrow and Saturday have left for the scene of the competitions. E. J. Glanulni, athletic director of the New York A. C., accompanied the team. Among those who went are: P. J. Walsh, the champion 220-yard runner; Alexander Grant, the half-mile runner; W. McLanahan and H. L. Gardner, who will compete in the pole vault; S. S. Jones, the crack high jumper; James S. Mitchell, the hammer and weight thrower; Richard Sheldon, who will also compete in the shotput; John Dewitt, the intercollegiate hammer thrower; Mahoney, Munson, Pratt, Pilgrim and Ballantine.

KETCHUM IN THE HURDLES.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 2.—Captain Ketchum, of the Cornell track team, left to-day for St. Louis to compete in the hurdle events of the Amateur Athletic Union championships at the exposition. Ketchum will wear the colors of the New York Athletic Club.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE.

There will be a post season series in the Grammar School Baseball League. The first game will be played June 11, and the final contest a week later at the Huntington avenue grounds.

GAME LAD FIGHTS FORTY-TWO ROUNDS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 2.—After forty-two three-minute rounds of the fiercest kind of fighting against a seasoned opponent, several years older, a head taller and fifteen pounds heavier than himself, sixteen-year old Charley Goldman, despite of his misheard of gameness, was knocked out with a right hand smash on the jaw by Young Gardner in the back room of a saloon in Brooklyn early to-day.

Both boys are from Manhattan, and while Young Gardner had had considerable experience with boxers of the prize ring, it was the Goldman lad's first experience outside of sparring matches with his friends. He had never played were put on, and have yet to lose. Joseph Fiske, manager, No. 35 Kingston street, Cambridge.

Russell A. Smith like to get through the Amateur Athletic Union meet at St. Louis to-day, and will be glad to hear from any of the Watson or Wellington boys on that line. Address Russell A. Smith, 1 Bowdoin square, Boston. We are their masters, or any seventy-seven pound team in Boston. Address Harry Bishop, manager, No. 3 Allston place, Charlestown.

St. Cyprian's Catholic team, to play 13 to 15-year old teams. James Toland, manager, No. 21 Bainbridge street, Dorchester.

St. John Benedictines of the South End, a new organization, would like to hear from any team in the four best games. Address Frankie Hamilton, manager, No. 1 Franklin street, Boston.

Charles A. C. open the season June 4, when they play the crack Methuen A. C. at Methuen. Address Charles A. C., 41 Matta pan, Lawrence, Mass., or call at 41 Matta pan street.

Franklin A. C. open the season June 4, when they play the crack Methuen A. C. at Methuen. Address Franklin A. C., 41 Matta pan street, Lawrence, Mass.

Hartford A. A. and Watertown Y. M. C. A. clash for Watertown Y. M. C. A. grounds. The battery of Hartford will be Hamel and Campbell, and that for Watertown, Shehill and Shumphenay.

The rookie have won all five games played. They want games with 14-year-old teams. Thomas Kelley, manager, 24 Fourth street, Roxbury.

Glenwood, of Somerville, want games with 15-year-old teams. N. L. Brown, manager, No. 279 Lowell street, Somerville.

HARD TO PICK THE WINNERS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 2. The reign of mud will continue to-day and for two days to come. The track at Gravesend is just a wallowing mire. The heaviest mud track of the year to date prevails. Form and figure are almost out of the question. The light-footed horses will show to advantage over the kind of mud which is under this afternoon.

One of the good things of the day is supposed to be Tempter in the race for maiden two-year-olds. This one is mud and rolls mud and is regarded by knowing sporters as already in. A rolling steeplechase along Walter Cleary, Fulmidate and Cock Robin meet in one of the best things on the card.

OLDFIELD TO START RACES

Albert Champion is wavering between the bicycle and the automobile. He desires to stay in the bicycle game and as he has proven his right to championship honors, and then perhaps he will quit for good, and take up with America's built machine to do battle against his confreres of France. The great question does not, however, seem to interfere with his training for his race at Revere Saturday night.

Hugh MacLean was on hand yesterday and showed great improvement in form, he having almost entirely recovered from the ill effects of the fall he experienced on Thursday last, and which accounted in some measure for his showing against Walthour. Moran is just as strong as he has been all season long, and says that this will be his last race super. He has yet to lose his best race of the season.

Harry Oldfield, the famous operator of the Winton Bullet No. 2, will start the races next Saturday night, coming direct from the Readville races, where he is billed to ride against the best automobilists in this country.

COLLINS'S MEN IN FINE FORM

CLEVELAND, June 2.—"Pretty good for a wild and woolly starter," said Jimmy Collins this morning, speaking of the opening game with the Blues. "And they didn't get a hit off our best either. We hadn't got our travelling kinks out of our legs. But we were fast enough, and we intend to keep it up.

"Wasn't that a great catch of Stahl's? He certainly saved our mutton. All the boys are in great shape, and I think our trip will be most successful."

Cy Young was pleased as a child with a new toy at his reception by the fans. He had almost forgotten that he is an old Spider, but they hadn't. He was cheered heartily, both for his good slab work and for old times' sake.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR M'COY TO RIDE BASEBALL TO-DAY

NEW YORK, June 2.—Notwithstanding all talk to the contrary, "Kid" McCoy will fight no one until the Autumn.

He starts to-day on horseback, with his wife, for Montreal in the Adirondack trails from Lake George, and does not expect to return until September. He will ride every foot of the way in the saddle, and will travel only to cut down a tree or two and row in the lakes of the Adirondack chain.

"I realize," the "Kid" said, "that I was short of work in my last fight. I must get hard. I won't fight Fitz or anyone else until I'm right and I'll be right by the time I return."

The greatest spectre doesn't intend going to Frisco to train Munroe or he kidded into a bout with anyone until he is rugged again.

"This summer belongs to my wife," said he, "and to my own figure.

"I'll stick to the saddle until I cross the line, and then stick to it back again.

"Nothing can beat my schedule unless my horse falls down and steps on me."

BASEBALL WEATHER TO-DAY.

It looks bad for the national game to-day. The following table shows the weather conditions in the baseball cities at noon to-day, and the time scheduled for beginning the games:

Plenty of Backstops.

Probably there is not another club in the country that has five backstops and they are all pretty good ones at that. Star nagle, Zearfoss, McLean, Byers and Grady make up the quintet. If any of the five go it is likely to be Zearfoss and McLean. Last season Starnagle, when he caught for Colorado Springs, of the Western Association, was the leading man behind the bat.

In the pitching department, the St. Louis Cardinals have some of the fastest staffs in the National League. Joe Corbett, Charley Nichols, Charley McFarland, Mike O'Neil and Jack Taylor are twirlers of the first water. With these men the Cardinals leader, Kelly, will be a hard man to beat.

Mike O'Neil is now in the Fair City in rather bad condition. He has been threatened with typhoid fever. It is to be hoped that the trouble will not prove dangerous. Mike has joined his brother, Jack, who was traded with Fielder Brown for Jack Taylor of the Chicagos. The latter was a regular of the Colts for over seven years. He is considered a thoroughbred when it comes to tossing slants over the plate.

Nichols Still a Kid.

Kid Nichols is without doubt the youngest looking man on the team. He has been pitching professional ball for the past seventeen years. He broke into the game when he was but seventeen years old. He is still very smooth shaven and gives one the impression that he is a mere boy.

If there is a game to-day Jack Taylor and Grady will be the battery, while Pittenger and Needham will be in the points for Boston.

Charley Nichols will be on the slab for the Cardinals Saturday and a record-breaking crowd is expected to be in attendance.

Said one of the members of the team this morning: "Nichols is pitching as fine ball as ever in his long career on the diamond. He has got all his old-time speed, while his curves break as well as of yore.

"All the boys do not see why we haven't a good show at the banner this season. At present we are but seven games behind the leaders. That is not a very big margin to overcome.

"Many of the fans figure that we have the strongest pitching and catching staffs in the league. The boys are hitting pretty well and the fielding is beyond reproach."

WORCESTER WON'T QUIT

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, June 2.—About this time of the year there is a number of transfers in the baseball world, especially in this section. The latest in this direction is the dream to the effect that the team representing this city will be transferred to Fall River, but those closely allied to the interests of the home club claim there is no foundation for concocting such a fabrication.

M. J. Kittredge, the president owner, is already making plans for next season to strengthen the team, which rather knocks in the head any stories that a transfer is contemplated.

Worcester teams are not money winners, even if they average well in the standing, and pennant games are short the chances greatly. While the attendance has not been what was expected, the poor weather is the cause of the falling off, but Manager Kittredge is confident that with the prospect of better conditions that the people will turn out and give the team that support which it deserves.

The fans that are steadfast claim the Worcester team to be the fastest that ever represented the city, and appreciation of the fact will grow as the season advances.

NOTED TERRIER DEAD.

GLOUCESTER, June 2.—One of the most noted Boston terriers in the country, Toby K., is dead. He had won first prizes at all the important bench shows in the country.

At 1:30 o'clock there seemed to be absolutely no chance for the game between the Fall Rivers and Cardinals at the South End field, on account of the rain.

A sorry sight was presented up at the grounds. All the diamond was under water, formed all around the diamond, and the part of the field that was not covered by grass was soft, slimy mud. Even the clubhouse had a dejected appearance, and the sole occupant being "Count" Abbattichio, who was cleaning out his locker.

"Not much prospect of a game to-day," said the "Count," with a laugh. "Well, I'm just as well satisfied."

"Where is the Big Chief?" was asked of him.

"I don't know, probably under cover down at Wintarop.

Meanwhile, Ed Batty went to the door and took an look at the weather, but finally had to admit that it was no use to expect a game to-day. Even if the sun did come out it could not dry up the field in time.

The city employes are at present busy laying a drain in Walpole street, and if a game should be played it would interfere somewhat with those who use that entrance to the grounds, but they are hustling he work on it, and it is thought that the whole job will be finished by to-night.

CARDINALS MAY REDUCE FORCES

Thinking they have too large a catching staff, the Cardinals are going to farm out two of that department. Who will go has not been decided upon as yet. It is a cinch that it will be neither Grady or Byers, as they are the mainstays behind the bat at the present time.

Grady is the principal catcher, without doubt. The reason that he works in so many games is because his batting is away above par. He is now swatting the horsehide at a .400 clip. His throwing to the bases is all of the top-notch order.

Amateur Games Wanted.

After a successful opening battle with the Young Men's Christian Union team, the Boston Athletic Association baseball team is anxious to secure more club in the state during the season. Morris Smith, manager, 1 Bowdoin square.

Hamilton of Chelsea are open to meet any 15-year-old team. Address Frank Hamilton, manager, No. 1 Franklin street, Boston.

Juniors of Charlestown would like to play any 17 and 18 year-old team in the State, give or take half and even. Address Joseph Fiske, manager, No. 35 Kingston street, Cambridge.

Russell A. Smith like to get through the Amateur Athletic Union meet at St. Louis to-day, and will be glad to hear from any of the Watson or Wellington boys on that line. Address Russell A. WHO IS THE PRETTIEST GIRL IN BOSTON?

FOUR HANDSOME CANDIDATES IN BOSTON AMERICAN'S BEAUTY CONTEST.

HERE are four more Boston girls, who, it is evident from their photographs, are well qualified to go before the great jury of AMERICAN readers that is to decide the interesting question: "Who Is the Prettiest Girl in Boston?" Interest in this competition is growing apace, and photographs of beautiful young women of this city are coming in rapidly. They will be published from time to time for the delectation of the readers of the AMERICAN. All the charming Boston girls who feel that their claims to the foremost place in the contest ought to be recognized should send their photographs to the AMERICAN at once, so that the friendly and discriminating jury may get an early opportunity to pass upon their pretty features.

WHO KILLED GERALD BROWN?

BY CAPT. RICHARD RUDD.

What Reader of the Boston American Can Solve the Problem in This Story.

CHAPTER XIX.—CONTINUED.

THE girl walked straight to the door of the cell and would have extended her gloved hand through the grating had not the jailer stepped her.

"Excuse me, Miss," he said, "but that's against the rules. Some times people slips notes to prisoners, an' I'm here to see that nothin' like that is done."

Prudence drew back her hand. "My dear Mr. Dexter," she began, in a voice so low that the jailer drew nearer that her words might not escape him, "I feel that I am responsible for this cruel thing, and I came to tell you I'll help you all I can. I slipped away from papa when I heard about it and came straight here. I don't know exactly what I can do," she continued, with a troubled look, "but I hope so much to aid you."

"First tell me one thing," said Dexter, eagerly, "how did you get away from the island, and how did you escape your captors?"

"I didn't escape them," she said. "You see, as soon as they found I had left the yacht they began some kind of signalling to the shore, and that fiend of a Chinaman, who had been aboard of the boat, saw them and must have been hovering around the island all day. I don't know what happened or how he got on the launch. The last thing I remember was that I was sitting on a rock, waiting for you and Mr. Moss, when a pickerchief was put over my face. I tried to scream, but couldn't make a sound, and the next thing I knew I was back on board the yacht, which was at anchor in the bay outside here."

"This morning papa and Mr. Moss received news of the long journey, having left me in the custody of one of the sailors. I heard them come into the cabin and never heard them talking of your arrest, and they told me expressly that the reward was offered in the papers. I hate to say those things of my father, but oh, Mr. Dexter, I know now that he is a thoroughly bad man, and when I leave here I shall go to my friends and never go back to him."

"It seems to me," said Dexter, "that your father and his friend Mathews are rather cool in claiming a reward I offered myself. Do they expect me to pay for my own conviction?"

"I heard them talk that over. They expect to file a claim on the estate when you are convicted—" her voice broke.

"Electrocuted," suggested Dexter, grimly.

"When you are out of the way, I didn't wait to hear any more; but, seeing an opportunity to get a small boat, I rowed myself over to the shore, and here I am. Oh, Mr. Dexter, can't I tell the truth to the police and liberate you?"

"I think that would be difficult, with your father's great weight of respectability on the other side," said Dexter. "But I don't like to involve you in the matter at all. It is seldom that a man is condemned to death unless he happens to be guilty, and I imagine it will be rather a difficult affair proving that in my case. The only way you can help me is by communicating with my friend Moss. The last time I saw him he was bound for Whitestone, but he'll be over here as soon as he misses me, and if you wouldn't mind hiding a detective to come up and look for him—"

There was a step in the corridor, and Grimes strode in, followed by his grinning satellite.

"Miss Grimes," said the old man, laying a rough hand on the girl's shoulder, "I'll thank you to return to my yacht, and not go gallivanting around after murderers."

The girl turned on him with flashing eyes.

"Mr. Grimes," she said, looking him straight in the face, "I happen to be of age, and am my own guardian. I'll thank you to know that you are a bad man. I renounce you as a father, and shall hereafter have nothing more to do with you or your nefarious associates. Kindly retire and let me do as I please!"

The old man was staggered at this unexpected outburst, but he recovered himself quickly.

"Guard," he said to the jailer, "my daughter is wandering in her mind. I shall make out commitment papers presently and have her taken in an asylum. In the meantime kindly turn her over to the police."

The girl stood near Dexter's cell, and lightly touched his hand.

"I beg of you, do as he says for the present. I am sure it will come out all right. For my sake, go with him, and when I get out of this he'll trouble you no further."

The girl hesitated a moment, looked at her father defiantly, and followed the jailer down the hall.

"And now," said Grimes, "Mr. Dexter, I am through with you. I have tried every honorable means to shield you from the result of your guilt from the start."

"When you joined forces with those scoundrelly dings that had been seeking my life, I conceived with all the energies at my command to rescue you. Mr. Mathews, who has been a friend of yours from the first, assisted me to the best of his great ability. Didn't you, Mathews?"

Mathews smiled cheerfully.

"But," continued Grimes, "finding you incorrigible, I at last determined to turn you over to the police. Here you are, and here you may rot, for all I care. This last bit of evidence from the only man who ever believed in you beside myself ought to convince you of the hopelessness of your case and to prove to you that further resistance will be in vain. Mathews, show him the telegram you just received this morning before you turn it over to the police."

Mathews smiled pleasantly and pulled a yellow envelope from his pocket, from which he drew a telegram. It was dated that morning at Whitestone, and read:

"W. H. Grimes, New Rochelle—Have secured evidence that places guilt of Dexter beyond doubt. He has deserted me, taking body of Sun with him. Would advise his early arrest, and promise my co-operation in bringing him to justice. Am on my way to join you."

"It's a miserable counterfeit," cried Dexter, handing back the message through the bars.

"It's as genuine as a gold dollar," said Mathews; and something in his voice persuaded Dexter that for once he spoke the truth, and that Simon Moss had either lost faith in him or had been bought by Grimes's money.

CHAPTER XX.

Mr. Mathews Executes a Mission.

DAZED and bewildered by this last shock, Dexter stood for a moment staring at his tormentors, and then turned and walked to the rear of his cell, where he sat down on the narrow shelf that served for a bunk.

That last bit of news seems to have served its purpose, he heard Mathews say, as the two walked away down the corridor. But Dexter attached no meaning to what the fellow said. His brain was too full of surprise and sorrow to worry about Mathews just then.

Moss, the old and trusted friend, had turned against him. Moss, the one man upon whom he had depended, not only to help him solve the mystery of his uncle's death, but to bring the murderer to justice, had been purchased, like all the rest of them, by Grimes.

What hope was there for him, Dexter, when such a man as this was susceptible to the powerful arguments Grimes had to offer?

Other witnesses could be bought, his life could be sworn away; in deed, he felt himself under the very shadow of the death house, and all because one man had proved false. With Moss dead or bought, and outside of the jail, much could be accomplished.

Of the guilt of Grimes and Mathews there could be no doubt. It could be readily established by an enterprising and intelligent detective, but what hope was there of finding such a one, when Grimes stood at the gates of the jail, ready to hurl them up as soon as they were enlisted in Dexter's service.

For the first time since the night of the murder, Dexter utterly broke down. Black despair settled on him, and he found himself mechanically wondering what it would be like to be led to the death chair, and what he should say to the witnesses when given a chance to make his last speech.

There was a tap at the door, and the jailer's head appeared against the grating.

"There's a man wants to see you," he said.

Dexter looked up. "I don't want to see anybody," he said, morosely. "Why can't they let me alone?"

"But this man has a letter, and he says you'd like to see it," persisted the jailer.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN

Ladies' Shirt Waist Suit.

Nothing is more appropriate or sensible than the shirt waist suit for general shirt wear, and the woman who appears in this simple but smart dress is always considered well dressed. They are suitable for the office, for shopping, for calling, for outdoor sports and, in fact, one feels no difference between the suit for morning or afternoon wear.

Made in wash material, it is both cool and neat, and will give long service. It is better than a blue linen suit in this style and wearing with it white stock and cuffs, or cloth stock and belt of colored ribbon. Then, too, it offers still more additional charm to such a costume. The model is simple, requiring seven gores for a skirt that flares at the bottom and is laid in plaits over the hips. The sleeve is in bishop style, which, as attached to a cuff which may open in shirt sleeves style turned either up or down, is a much worn mode of fastening.

For the skirt, regular, with two yards at the bottom, to which is attached a shaped flounce, will be required. Three and one-half yards can be used. These are in most pretty kinds that one can scarcely make a mistake if good judgment is used in the selection of colors.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN will mail a pattern of either the waist or skirt on receipt of 10 cents, or both of receipt of 20 cents, to cover all cost of handling.

Order each pattern by number, as given below, and address plainly your name, number and address wanted.

Pretty Girls of Boston! SEND IN YOUR PHOTOGRAPHS

THE BOSTON AMERICAN has been asked by numerous correspondents to name the prettiest girl in Boston. The question is herewith passed along to the readers of the AMERICAN for them to decide. A half hours' walk on any of the leading streets of our city, in the Common, the Public Garden, the Parks, Commonwealth avenue and in the adjacent suburbs, discloses the fact that there are more pretty young women and girls to be found in and about Boston than in any other city in the United States. So that the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN may form themselves into a great jury to decide the question, we request that photographs, properly authenticated, be sent to the BEAUTY EDITOR, BOSTON AMERICAN Office, 30 and 32 Summer Street.

Fruit and Salad Plates

GOOD substantial fruit or salad plates come in English ware at $6 a dozen. On the former, strawberries are the decorations, the seeded and green contrasting very effectually with the rich, creamy white of the porcelain. The salad plates display small tomatoes along the edges treated in similar style. Two sizes may be had for the same price.

Work!

FOR every suffering of sense,
For sadder mental impotence,
There is a certain recompense
In work.

When Penury would Vision kill,
Mid lassitude of flesh or will,
O keep this slogan ringing still,
To work.

There lurks no conjury of Fate,
No spider-web of human hate,
But thou canst shatter—only wait
And work.

Thus enemies are all within—
Deliverance must there begin—
Arouse, thee, Soul, and thou shalt win
By work.

Thy triumph, from its final height,
May cheer some comrade in his fight,
Dispel his shadow—with the light
Of work.

Cretonne Pocket for Travelling

VERY neat is a little cretonne pocket, which provides a method for carrying brush and comb about on a journey. Two compartments are shaped in accordance with these needs, yet the whole arrangement takes but little room, and can be tucked away in an odd corner of a hand-bag or be hung on a peg in one's room.

Corsage Sachets.

THE heart-shaped corsage sachet of white satin is to wear around the neck beneath the lingerie. The ribbon edge and bow make a pretty finish, and it is suspended by a ribbon. Another corsage sachet on this order consists of two pads about two inches square, with a small bow in the centre of each. They are fastened to the ends of a strip of baby ribbon.

For the Japanese sachet, make of Japanese silk a bag two and one-half by three inches, and in the top seam fasten a Japanese doll's head. Around its neck a ribbon is tied, stock fashion. The most popular sachet odors at present are sandalwood, orris and the Japanese perfumes.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty years of age. I took a fancy to a shopmate of mine. She is a pretty girl of my age. When she is in my company I feel the greatest pleasure, and when without her I feel gloomy. I love her, and she is worthy to be loved, as she is lovely in every sense of the word. The only difficulty is that, since she is so pretty she is also proud. Often times she smiles at me pleasantly, and it fills my heart with the greatest joy; but the next moment she is as cold and proud as ever. I think that women are really puzzles, as some people say, and therefore I want your advice, so that I may solve this puzzle.

H. RUBIN.

Boston.

I SHOULD not get discouraged too easily. Be persistent in your efforts to win her, and I am sure you will succeed. The fact that she smiles occasionally proves that she does not dislike you, and that should encourage you.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady of twenty-three, and am in love with a gentleman of twenty-five. He thinks as much of me as I do of him. We have been going together a year. He is very good to me, and takes me anywhere I want to go. He does not smoke, drink or use profane language. The only trouble we have between us is religion, as he is a Protestant, while I am a Catholic. Do you think it will spoil our happiness. EDITH MAY BURNS.

Providence.

A DIFFERENCE in religion does not necessarily make an unhappy marriage, especially if the question is settled before marriage.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady of nineteen years and am deeply in love with a young man two years my senior. We have known each other for a long time, and as we both are in company a great deal, I would like to ask how I can gain his love, as I know he thinks a good deal of me. DORA W. Lawrence.

DO not think I should worry about him. You see a great deal of him, and you say he seems to like you very much, so I should simply let matters take their course. You can, without being forward, let him see that you enjoy his company, and when you are in his presence make him talk about himself and his affairs.

Don't Wed to Reform a Man.

By Beatrice Fairfax.

IN a letter received the other day, a girl asks me if she should marry a man to help him reform. I answer, most emphatically no.

If a man has not the strength of mind to reform for the sake of the girl he loves he is not likely to do it for the wife. Many girls think it romantic to strike up friendships with young men of the world, heroes who have seen life from all sides. They feel that it would be a grand thing to reform these interesting rakes, and imagine that their gentle influence will turn them from evil ways.

There are plenty of fine, right-living men for you to fall in love with, girls, and bear in mind that you cannot "touch pitch and be undefiled." Friendship with men of this class will do you no good. I know that the love or friendship of a good woman has kept many a man straight, but a young girl has not the experience of an older woman and is apt to make some sad mistakes in choosing her men friends. When you hear a young man boast that he has played cards all night or that he can drink a certain amount without being affected, just think of this picture; think!

This is how young men look who drink and gamble. Notice their faces—vacant, haggard, the greed of gold and the ravages of drink on every one. Are these the kind of men you want for your friends? If you have brothers or men friends who are inclined toward this sort of life, do all you can to help them, provide other amusements as much as in your power, make your home so attractive that they will prefer spending an evening with you to gambling and drinking, but don't, I pray, girls, when you are introduced to a man of these habits, look on him in the light of an interesting scapegrace. There is nothing interesting, fine or manly about him; he is just a miserable failure, and nothing but harm will come of your friendship. Other, better men will leave you alone.

Never marry a man who tells you that he cannot reform unless you will first marry him. Let him reform first, and when you are quite sure the reformation is complete, then marry him if you still love him. The man who has gone through deep waters and has swum out by his own strength, will and purpose is often the finest of men.

BOSTONIANS' "SERENADE" MELODIOUS

Popularity of Company Shown in Big Audiences Which Attend Colonial Performances.

'WOODLAND' GOOD AS EVER

THE popularity of the Bostonians in this city has been well shown so far this week by the large audiences that have attended the performances of "The Serenade" at the Colonial Theatre. It is a well-balanced organization and gives a highly commendable presentation of this tuneful opera. The people of Boston have always regarded this company as a home institution, and have never been grudging in their support. "The Serenade" is full of melodic airs and is a thoroughly delightful work.

GLOBE THEATRE—The Globe Theater is a cool place on warm nights and a comfortable place on any night, while the "Isle of Spice" is one of the prettiest entertainments that has been seen here in a long time. It is no wonder therefore that the attendance continues large and that the opera seems likely to run for many weeks to come. There is much comedy in the "Isle of Spice," but the great charm of the production lies in the prettiness, daintiness and cleverness of its feminine element.

TREMONT THEATRE.—"Woodland" is just as popular as ever at the Tremont Theater, and the best evidence of its success lies in the fact that the management is still announcing the sale of seats four weeks in advance. It has struck a popular chord, and its tunefulness and charm make it one of the most enjoyable of Summer entertainments. The new members of the company have added greatly to the effectiveness of the presentation, and new matter constantly introduced keeps the performance fresh and lively.

MUSIC HALL.—"Sky Farm" has proved a welcome Summer attraction at Music Hall, and is continuing to please large audiences at every performance. It is one of the best of the "country" plays, and gives an enjoyable picture of rustic life. Miss Clara Joel, who is now playing Marigold, gives a charming performance, and the return of Frank G. Hartwell to the cast as Squire Breeze has added considerably to the strength of the company.

BOSTON THEATRE.—The second and last week of the fortnight's engagement of "Girls Will Be Girls" and the final week of the regular dramatic season at the Boston Theatre finds no apparent diminution of patronage and certainly no falling off in appreciation of that merry musical melange. The musical numbers of "Girls Will Be Girls" are catchy and tuneful, and Al Leach, the Three Rosebuds and the others of the company have proved themselves very successful as entertainers.

KEITH'S THEATRE.—The younger members of the audiences at Keith's this week are greatly delighted at the amusing antics of Taffany's performing dogs, and their elders are not above enjoying them, either. The Fadettes are as popular as ever, and their concerts give a great deal of pleasure. There are many other good features, and altogether the bill this week is a very attractive one.

THE "POPS."—The cosmopolitan character of the audiences at the "Pops" in Symphony Hall this season is noted by all who attend these pleasant events, and that air of jollity that prevails among the patrons shows that the social side is fully appreciated. A brilliant list of overtures, marches, waltzes and operatic music will be played this evening.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—"Two Little Vagrants" is proving one of the hits of the season at the Castle Square Theatre and is filling the house at every performance. It is a very interesting and enjoyable play, and is given an excellent presentation by the stock company. "Hearts of Oak" is announced for next week.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.—"Daughters of the South" is a picturesque war play, and is arousing much enthusiasm on the part of the audiences at the Bowdoin Square Theatre this week. It affords the members of the stock company congenial parts, and the handsome scenery. "Lady of Lyons" next week.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM.—A very enjoyable programme is that offered by the Howard this week, and the patrons of the house have shown it hearty appreciation. The bill is headed by Kittie Bingham, who won their favor when a member of the Howard stock, and includes a good number of the acts that appeal to audiences here.

PALACE THEATRE.—A clever stock company and a good olio furnish attractive Summer entertainment at the Palace Theater this week. The burlesques are very amusing, and the variety element of the show is well up to the standard of the house.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—The Innocent Beauties" is a big bill at the Lyceum Theatre, and are giving an excellent entertainment. There are many pretty girls, good comedians with the show and the girls are pretty and attractive.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The baby incubators are attracting much attention at Austin & Stone's Museum, and constitute the centre of interest, at least for the women among the audiences. There are many other good things in the bill.

NORUMBEGA PARK.—Judging by the attendance so far the opening week, the season just beginning promises to be the most successful in the history of Norumbega Park. The many new features have attracted much favorable comment and everybody is delighted with the great new open air theatre. The variety bill this week is an excellent one, and greatly adds to the enjoyment of an afternoon or evening at the popular resort on the Charles.

HEARST TRIP TO ST. LOUIS THE ONE TOPIC OF INTEREST TO BOSTON SCHOOLBOYS, AND DORCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL GROUNDS WILL BE USED JUNE 17 FOR COMPETITION

The Events Will Be Identical With Those to Be Run Off at the Fair.

AT THE athletic grounds of the Dorchester High School on the afternoon of June 17 many of the schoolboys of Boston will meet in competition, and the result will be watched closely by the committee that will select the team of boys that are to be taken to the St. Louis Fair by Congressman William Randolph Hearst to compete in the Olympian games on July 4, 5 and 6.

The events to be run off at Dorchester are the same as those scheduled for the St. Louis contest, and the schoolboys of the city are practicing with might and main for the event. Of course, the result of these games will not necessarily decide who are to compose the St. Louis team. That matter is in the hands of the athletic committee of the Boston High Schools. The records made, however, at the Dorchester meet will in some measure affect the decision of the committee of High School masters.

Preparations for the meet are being made on a lavish scale, and an immense crowd is expected. It is reasonable to suppose that from the boys who will clash on the Dorchester field will eventually be chosen the lucky lads who will make the trip to the Fair, and, it is hoped, bring a wreath of laurels back to the Hub.

Eligibility Rules Strict.

In another column are printed the eligibility rules governing the World's Fair meet. The boys and their instructors should study this well, so that a person will not be selected who will be rejected after the trip is made.

The age limit especially should be kept carefully in mind. Competitors from the Grammar Schools must be under fifteen; those from the High Schools must be under nineteen.

Letters from the people in praise of Mr. Hearst's action in taking the boys to St. Louis keep pouring into the AMERICAN office. The boys are talking about the matter, and their parents are in full sympathy with the project, as evinced by the following statements:

JOHN F. CUSSICK, of A. C. Lombard's Sons & Co., of State Street:

It is a grand idea and meets with my hearty approval. I think the boys are very fortunate in having the opportunity of going to the Fair. Nearly all Boston school boys are athletes and I don't think there will be any great difficulty in picking out a team of the winning class. Besides upholding the honor of the city the boys will have an opportunity to see the Fair which will prove of inestimable value to them in years to come.

F. F. PREBLE, principal of the Adams Grammar School, East Boston:

It not only is a physical aid but offers excellent educational opportunities to those who are fortunate in being selected.

PRINCIPAL KELLEY, of the Lyman Grammar School:

I am in favor of any project which tends to assists in the development of the scholars and to make better citizens and men of the boys.

J. WILLARD BROWN, principal of the Emerson Grammar School:

There must be a limit to age, and I believe the Grammar School pupils too young to undertake the strain of such a contest. Otherwise I favor the project.

TILSON A. MEAD, principal of the Chapman Grammar School:

I am in favor of the idea, and think the Grammar pupils may be included if they can be properly managed to the satisfaction of the parents and the benefit of the pupils.

JOHN F. ELIOT, head master of the East Boston High School:

I believe the School Committee can successfully manage their part of the idea to the benefit of the contestants.

If his school may be taken as a criterion, the East Boston High School will be among the leaders of the eligibles, as the basket-ball team has been the champions of the Interstate League.

WILLIAM J. CORCORAN, bicycle track manager:

I am sure it is a grand thing, if the boys are in good physical condition. They should be examined by a physician who is versed athletics, as you can't be too careful in regard to the youth starting out.

E. L. HOPKINS, real estate dealer:

I feel certain it would be one of the grandest events to encourage boys all over the country, and I think it a very kind offer on Mr. Hearst's part.

ELIGIBILITY RULES TO GOVERN CONTEST

DR. LUTHER HALSEY GULICK is no precedents to go by. This is the secretary of the Public Schools Athletic League, of New York, and has been in consultation with the World's Fair authorities as to the standards of eligibility which are to govern the athletic competition of the schoolboys of United States at the Exposition at St. Louis on July 4, 5, and 6, and the result is of the greatest interest to the school boys of Boston.

These standards are all the more difficult to set, inasmuch as there were real

The first time that schoolboys have had any regular schedule of events on the program of an Exposition.

The conditions of the competition have been so drawn as to bring out the boys doing the regular work of the schools at the average age.

As will be seen, these rules allow no loophole whereby a boy may go in for athletics to the detriment of his studies, nor do they cater to the boy who, through lack of application, remains in the school for a longer period than it takes the average boy to complete his course, thereby having a physical advantage over his smaller competitor. The unruly boy is also at a disadvantage, for these rules bar him from the competition.

The following are the rules governing the competition:

Those boys only will be allowed to compete at the Public Schools Athletic League meet who are carrying full work in a regular course.

Those boys only are eligible for competition whose present grade of scholarship entitles them to promotion or graduation, if kept up.

Those boys only who entered the school they represent before March 1, 1904, are eligible for these competitions.

No boy who is under discipline for infraction of the rules of his school shall be permitted to take part in these competitions.

In the case of Elementary Schools, these boys only who are under 15, and in the case of High Schools those boys only who are under 19 are eligible to compete at these games.

No boy who has represented any other athletic organization for one year is eligible to compete.

Finally, those boys only who are amateurs in good standing shall be allowed to participate in this competition.

HEARST WINS PIVOTAL FIGHT

Victory in Fourth Maine District Leaders Say Gives Him Majority.

SPLIT OCCURS IN SECOND

LEWISTON, Me., June 2.—Democrats of the Fourth District have named a Hearst delegation to the St. Louis convention. The delegates chosen are Messrs. Gould of Old Town, Hathaway of Houlton and Hanson of Washington. They were the unanimous choice of the convention, at which much enthusiasm for the candidacy of Mr. Hearst was shown.

"I am for Hearst, first, last and all the time," says Mr. Hathaway.

A split has occurred in the Second District. The anti-Hearst faction tried to run things with a high hand and named their own delegation, after a protracted fight on the floor of the convention. The Hearst men then withdrew to another hall and named their own delegation. The contest will be settled in the committee on credentials, and candidates for Congress were also named by the two conventions.

Maine Democratic leaders say that the choosing of a Hearst delegation in the Second District gives them a majority of the Maine delegation.

BRYAN DOMINANT IN OKLAHOMA

ANADARKO, Okla., June 2.—The Bryan wing of the Oklahoma Democracy dominated the convention held to elect delegates to the St. Louis convention.

The platform favors the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one state, and reaffirms the democratic platforms of 1896 and 1900.

BRYAN IN FRONT IN NEBRASKA

OMAHA, June 2.—William J. Bryan completely dominated the Nebraska State convention here, and his appearance awakened the greatest enthusiasm.

Chairman H. H. Hanks ruled out of order a motion pledging the support of the party's nominees of the national convention, whoever they might be.

There is a general feeling that both wings of the party will get together, and that the proceedings of the State convention will be

Some More Questions in Rhyme.

They Will Help You Brush Up Your Memory.

Mr. Bostelmann's questions in rhyme having proved interesting to our readers, some others are published to-day. You might again cover up the answers, which are put in small type at the left, in order to test your memory. The answers are printed so that if the family circle should care to go over them, it will not be necessary to make numerous references to the encyclopedia:

Beat This Bill in the House

It Surrenders to a Railroad the People's Rights.

The public-spirited men of Massachusetts should rally with all their energy and concentrate their every effort on the House of Representatives to obtain there the defeat of the bill just passed by the Senate, giving extraordinary powers to the Western Massachusetts Street Railway Company.

This bill was passed by the Senate in the face of the outspoken protests of the State Board of Trade, the chairman of the Gas and Electric Light Commission and the chairman of the Railroad Commission.

What arguments induced the Senate to disregard such opposition and give away the people's rights to a railroad the lobby might tell—but it will not.

This bill is one of the most flagrant cases of corporations getting free gifts from the people through representatives who are blind to the interests of their real masters.

Here is a fine chance to teach the railroads and their agents a lesson. Beat the bill in the House.

A QUESTION FOR AUTO OWNERS.
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I read your columns with much interest. I wish to ask one question. It is this: Why is it that citizens of Boston and its suburbs, ordinarily most respectable men, change their entire attitude toward law and order when they become possessors of an automobile?

I have overheard men high up in all the attributes of citizenship gloat over the fact that their red or white "devils" had exceeded the statutory limit of speed to such an extent that they, these good citizens, had to be haled before the court and fined for so doing. At automobile clubs which I have frequented, not as an automobile owner but as a casual visitor, it is a "good joke" for one of those present to tell how he eluded this officer or that officer, and how, instead of decreasing the speed of his machine at the sight of the lifeboat, he put on more speed to get by. Is this the spirit that men of intelligence should show toward the law, when they are the first to uphold the prosecution of a poor unfortunate who has taken too much liquor and is able to amble along at a speed dangerous to no one but himself?

ANNOYANCES IN FRONT OF NEW BUILDINGS.
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The BOSTON AMERICAN is so enterprising in bringing about reforms that I feel sure you will hear a little complaint that I have to make. It is against the filthy manner in which the walks under the street structures in front of new buildings, or ones being remodelled, are kept and the carelessness of workmen in keeping their refuse from falling on passersby. No woman's clothes are safe in many instances.

"Doosid clever waiter, August, dontcherknow," observed the Duke of Boots to the Marquis of Ingrain as they sat in the luxurious Monopoly Club enjoying a tete-a-tete and other like refreshments. Tout le monde was there. He often dropped in. Chauncey M. Depew was just propounding a conundrum to the Earl of Choo-Choo. "What's the answer, Chauncey?" cried a score of voices. "When it's a jar," replied the humorist without the slightest hesitation. A whirlwind of laughter shook the house. It was indeed a gilt-edged and degagee company, for fair.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Gives Points to Reporters.

(COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL-EXAMINER.)

It would be difficult to estimate the number of newspaper reporters and interviewers in America. They form a vast "standing army"—every city, town and hamlet where a newspaper is printed has its company, or regiment, of this army.

It is a profession which provides hundreds of thousands of men and women with occupation. They are a necessity in our civilization.

During the last year, having visited various portions of the United States, I have been interviewed by something like a score of reporters.

The majority began with a desultory talk of the weather and proceeded to request me "to tell them something of myself."

Now, when a lawyer or a doctor interviews a patron, he knows what he wants to know, and proceeds to find it out.

He remembers what his client or his patient tells him, and makes a memorandum of it. On his accuracy and skill depend his success in his profession.

Every interviewer should feel that his profession is as important and honorable as that of a lawyer or doctor. On his self-respect, rectitude and accuracy many a man's reputation in the eyes of an immediate public leans.

Characters have been blemished, principles jeopardized and fortunes lost through the idle or wilful indifference of interviewers to seriously and truthfully perform the work given them to do.

Is it not time that some higher ideal was set before the reportorial mind than to "Fill space with copy?"

Unless you are sent to describe noses and eyes, and mouths, do not feel called upon to be brutally frank, or extravagantly fulsome in your personal opinion of the public man's or woman's features.

It is as unkind to over-praise as to under-estimate. Indeed, it is some times easier to live down a libel than to live up to a eulogy.

Try to treat the person you interview with as much truthfulness, courtesy and decency in print as you would in a drawing room.

Respect yourself, your subject and your profession.

If you seek to be original, this method will make you so.

Who Is the Most Unpopular Man in Boston?

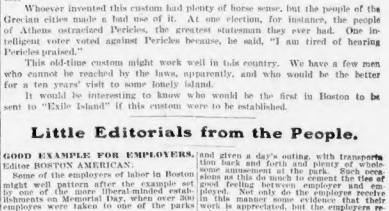
BY HERBERT N. CASSON.

The ancient Grecians, who died out 2,000 years ago, had a pleasant custom of taking a vote once in a while to see who was the most unpopular man in the city.

The man who got elected was at once banished to some distant country. He was sent away from his family, his property and his friends, if he had any friends. This custom was called "OSTRACISM."

The day that the vote was taken a large box was placed in the market place, and every citizen wrote the name of the man he disliked most on an oyster shell, and dropped it into the box. If less than 6,000 votes were cast for the most unpopular man he was given another chance to be good.

The banished men were not sent away for life. After ten years they could come back again and have their property restored to them, if there was any of it left.



Alone, with no city to rob.

This custom was started to prevent any one from becoming too powerful. The Greeks were always on their guard against tyrants. But the party politicians of Greece grew too much afraid of it, and little by little it dropped out of use.

Whoever invented this custom had plenty of horse sense, but the people of the Grecian cities made a bad use of it. At one election, for instance, the people of Athens ostracized Pericles, the greatest statesman they ever had. One indifferent voter voted against Pericles because, he said, "I am tired of hearing Pericles praised."

This old-time custom might work well in this country. We have a few men who cannot be reached by the laws, apparently, and who would be the better for a ten years' visit to some lonely island.

It would be interesting to know who would be the first in Boston to be sent to "Exile Island" if this custom were to be established.

GOOD EXAMPLE FOR EMPLOYERS.
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Some of the employers of labor in Boston might well pattern after the example set by one of the more liberal-minded establishments on Memorial Day, when over 300 employes were taken to one of the parks and given a day's outing, with transportation back and forth and plenty of wholesome amusement at the park. Such occasions as this do much to cement the ties of good feeling between employer and employed. Not only do the employes receive in this manner some evidence that their work is appreciated, but the employers receive in return better and more interested service than they would without some such manifestation of good will.

It may be said that this concern was not entirely unselfish in its generosity, but it is the kind of selfishness that coexists with the employes and creates a much more desirable feeling than some other kinds which are too often practiced.

PLEA FOR THE NEWSBOYS.
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Some police officers are fond of preying upon those who are least offensive. They are in pretty poor business when they prey upon poor newsboys. Is it a crime to make an honest living? It appears to be proof to some officers. They drag three or four newsboys into court, in all likelihood to show that they are doing something. We have enough criminals without giving the future citizens an insight to the road that oftentimes leads to destruction. In this respect there is nothing worse than a cell and the court. A little common sense might soften the penalties most unwisely. I am with the boys. They have illnesses, they have done no wrong, and honesty is their purpose.

SPREADING THE LIGHT IN MAINE.
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

As a young Democrat, and proud of the fact, I believe it my duty to make these few remarks. The people down this way have known in the past nothing but the Republican party. They don't know or don't care who formed the trusts or what led to their growth. But since your great American paper for the American people has come to light down East, it has done more for the cause of Democracy than any other paper now printed. That fearless man, William Randolph Hearst, must be our next President. May God give wonders of strength to Mr. Hearst's papers to spread the cause of Democracy from one rod of the country to the other.
